Jewelry, Stocks Taken in Woodstock

Dragnet For Armed Robbers

By Matt Spireng

WOODSTOCK

Roadblocks in four counties were taken down early today, but a major search continues by area police for two armed men who forced their way into the home of two elderly sisters near here Monday night, ransacked the house and fled with jewelry and stocks valued at least $20,000.

Meanwhile, in an unrelated theft involving jewelry, Kingston Police are seeking two black males who robbed a Palenville man at knifepoint Monday night on Broadway.

The Town of Woodstock drama apparently began at about 7:30 p.m. when two men attempted to gain admittance to the home of Mrs. Florence Winters, 79, and her sister, Mrs. Erna Wetstein, also in her 70's, on Wittenberg Road.

Refused entry to the home, the men, both of whom were masked, kicked in the front door to the colonial style house and burst in on the women, brandishing a handgun and a knife.

The men, both described as white males, forced Mrs. Wetstein at knifepoint to open an upstairs safe and emptied the safe of jewelry, reportedly including diamonds and emeralds, and stocks kept there.

At one point they bound Mrs. Wetstein's hands, authorities said, and ransacked the house. Before fleeing, the men tore out the telephone and then sped off in Mrs. Winters' car.

According to police, Mrs. Winters, who was reportedly not tied during the robbery because she was feeling ill, cut Mrs. Wetstein's bonds after the men left, and the two women walked to a neighbor's house about a half a mile away to call police.

Woodstock Constables were informed of the robbery at about 8:20 p.m. and a major police dragnet immediately began, with roadblocks being set up in Ulster, Dutchess, Greene and Delaware Counties.

Authorities located Mrs. Winters' car abandoned in Wittenberg Park, about a mile from the scene of the robbery. Police speculate that the men had s second car waiting for them in the area.

State police, Woodstock Constables and Ulster County Sheriff's deputies joined in the investigation, but had failed to turn up the robbers today, despite the maintenance of roadblocks throughout much of the night.

Police described the two men as both being about five-feet, 10-inches tall and of slender build, wearing blue jeans. One of the men wore a stocking mask and carried a black handgun, authorities said. The second wore a surgical mask, large glasses and carried a switchblade knife.

Neither of the women was reported injured by the robbers, although both were reportedly shaken by terrifying series of events.

Meanwhile, in Kingston, detectives were seeking two males who confronted a Palenville man in broad daylight on Broadway Monday evening and made off with his watch, a diamond ring and $100 in cash.

The victim of the 6:15 p.m. robbery was identified as Michael Marcasciano of PO Box 302, Palenville. He was not injured in the robbery.

Police said the ring taken in the knifepoint robbery was valued at about $500.

Full descriptions of the suspects were not available.

County Lawyers Blame Doctors For Malpractice Problems

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Bar Association, contending that the problem with malpractice is in effect malpractice took its case to the public today.

Breaking a self-imposed six-month silence, the county's legal fraternity has accused the Ulster County Medical Society of attempting to "put your proffession in the singularly unique position of not being accountable for your personal carelessness except perhaps on your own terms."

"You seek immunity where it is not needed and based upon past experience may not be deserved, Robert A. Ronder, president of the bar association, wrote Dr. Edmond Reppert, president of the medical society on Monday.

Ronder, contending that the problems raised by the doctors in January in regards to their inability to secure malpractice insurance at affordable rates have been largely addressed by recently approved legislation which had the support of the state's legal fraternity, takes exception to the medical profession's continuing campaign . . . against lawyers.

"You and your members have chosen to single out and place the blame for your medical malpractice insurance problems on the legal profession," Ronder wote.

Some doctors contend that the prime reason for skyrocketing malpractice insurance premiums is the legal profession which takes cases on a contingency basis, often for huge sums.

Ronder chooses not to argue that point in his letter to Reppert although he told the Freeman the bar association generally feels that argument is invalid to a degree that the huge settlements the doctors refer to are relatively rare and that those settlements are awarded by juries and not lawyers.

Ronder's letter concerns itself with the rights of the patient and the responsibility the doctor has toward him.

Noting the "crying need in our country for more medical shcools and the training of more doctors," Ronder states, "it is the elimination of carelessness and negligence in medical treatment that will eliminate medical malpractice claims. Lawyers do not cause medical malpractice. Medical people are the cause of medical malpractice and it starts in the doctor's office or hospital, not in the lawyer's office . . ."

The bar association, through Ronder, is also opposed to any limiting of liability under the law such as proposed "no-Fault" medical coverage. "We believe special interest legislation to protect doctors from obligations owed by the rest of society to be unfair and unconstitutional," Ronder wrote. "It is especially unjust to treat consumers, injured by negligent physicians, as second class citizens entitled to less protection than all other consumers and it seems to be a clear denial of the patient's constitutional right to equal protection of the laws."

Ronder said that a special committee of the bar and the medical society met several times during the winter when the malpractice insurance problem broke in an effort to reach agreement on how to handle such cases. The possibility of a doctor/lawyer panel to review claims was reviewed but no agreement was reached.

House CIA Panel In Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has overwhelmingly voted its confidence in Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., as chairman of its select panel investigating the CIA. But it failed to resolve issues which have stymied its investigation.

The vote was 290-64. Nedzi later told reporters: "I resigned because I saw no hope. I don't see how I can go back to the old committee." His ouster has been sought by five of the seven Democrats on his panel.

Rep. James Stanton, D-Ohio, one of the leaders in the ouster attempt, said after the vote: "The best solution is to go foreward with the task. I am optimistic. I am willing to try.

But Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif, a key member of the House Rules Committee, predicted the controversy over Nedzi's chairmanship would continue to plague the House investigation of the intelligence community. He proposed the panel be abolished.

Sisk said he hoped to raise this proposal today before the House Rules Committee. He suggested the panel be reconstituted under the jurisdiction of the House Judiciary Committee or in some other form.

At issue was a charge by the dissident Democrats that Nedzi, as chairman of another panel, the CIA subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee, had received inside information more than a year ago about alleged CIA assassination plans against several foreign leaders.

Reps. Stanton, Michael Harrington, D-Mass., Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., and the others charged that Nedzi's failure to surface this information and probe the CIA impugns his ability to conduct a probing and impartial investigation.

In other developments:

—The House Armed Services Committee voted 16-13 to deny Harrington access to its secret files on CIA after he acknowledged having given the Washington Post secret information on CIA activities in Chile.

—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate CIA committee, said that according to information available to his panel, neither the CIA nor any other U.S. agency plotted agaisnt the life of the late French President Charles de Gaulle. The possibility of such a plot in the 1960s had been raised by the Chicago Tribune.

—Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., termed "utterly irresponsible" Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's suggestion Sunday that John and Robert Kennedy might have been involved in plots to assassinate foreign leaders.

Plots For a Limited N-War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's spokesman acknowledges the U.S. Air Force has given its pilots top secret mission folders with orders on how to fight a limited nuclear war —which Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and other planners feel is a good possibility.

At a White House briefing Monday, press secretary Ron Nessen was asked about a Washington Post report which said Strategic Air Command bomber crews "already have received new mission folders explaining their new tasks.

"These instructions represent another big step in the Ford administration's controversial decision to prepare the nation for a small nuclear war ... as well as for a war of massive destruction," the newspaper said.

Nessen, asked whether Ford had given the go-ahead for the training, said:

"Well, I don't know whether the President specifically gave his approval for the exercise.

"It is an exercise," he continued, "and American forces conduct exercises all over the world for any possible contingency, all possible contingencies that may come up in an uncertain world.

"The fact that the forces exist does not in any way indicate that the United States intends to use them.

"In fact, quite the opposite. The purpose of those forces is to deter a situation where they might have to be used. So the fact that these forces are taking part in an exercise is really a very normal part of the preparation ... but it more importantly adds credibility to the deterrent feature of having these forces."

Pentagon officials said they never comment on operational plans. One ranking officer said the change was integrating such possibilities as a one-shot apiece nuclear war into SIOP, the Single Integrated Operational Plan for nuclear war.

"Most of what's being done is simple," one ranking officer said. "Instead of telling a pilot to bomb, say, targets at B6, C7 and D3 (map coordinates), he's told to use Plan Alpha. We're simply giving the President flexibility in his response. We're letting him do that faster and if a crisis comes, speed is at a premium."

All the officials contacted Monday said the change in plans was logical.

Faces Life Term

KINGSTON

The man who authorities said at the time of his arrest last November may have been the major source of drug supply in the Onteora Central School District and may have been doing as much as $500,000 a year in business in illicit drug sales was found guilty early today in Ulster County Court on three felony drug possession charges. He faces a mandatory sentence carrying a maximum of life in prison.

Arlington Arthur Finch, 28, of Lake Hill was found guilty on three counts by a five-man, seven-woman jury at about 12:30 a.m., following some six and one-half hours of deliberations. The charges on which Finch was found guilty were second degree criminal possession of a controlled substance and two counts of fifth degree possession of a controlled substance. The jury was unable to reach a verdict on a fourth count of second degree criminal sale of a controlled substance.

During the course of the trial which began more than a week ago more than 7,000 "hits" of LSD, 14 pounds of marujuana and a quantity of cocaine were introduced as evidence against Finch. Most of the drugs were allegedly seized at Finch's residence during execution of a search warrant during the course of a major undercover investigation into the illegal sale of marijuana, LSD and other drugs at Onteora High School last autumn.

Six students were also arrested in that investigation.

Presiding during the lengthy trial was Schoharie County Judge Robert Ecker. First Assistant District Attorney Michael Kavanagh prosecuted the case. Finch was defended by Kingston attorney Alfred Mainetti.

Judge Ecker set June 25 as the date for sentencing.

CHAIRMAN HAROLD BROWN (L) CONFERS WITH MULLANY

Dems Nominate 10 Women As Legislative Candidates

CHEERS FROM ESOPUS DELEGATION
(Freeman photos)

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON

"We are ging to clean house," Democratic County Chairman Harold Brown promised Monday night following the Ulster County Democratic Convention at which the party faithful expressed extra ordinary confidence that 1975 will be a "big year for the Democrats," a year to cream the opposition.

More than a few indicated that they anticipate a Democratic sweep and emphasis was placed on gaining control of the Republican-dominated legislature.

And, in a surprise move, the Democrats fielded 10 women for the 33-member County Legislature hoping to make 1975 the "Year of Women" on the all-male board. Some female candidates were certainly expected but few thought 10 would surface.

"Twenty years ago, getting Democrats elected around here was like expecting the New York Mets to win the pennant the first year out," Legislator Lewis C. Kirschner (D-Dist. 6) said after he accepted the nomination for county clerk.

But, times have changed, he added optimistically, asking that the people "give us (the Democrats) the majority that is needed in the Ulster County Legislature."

"Good vibrations" were also felt by Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, who recalled that one year ago as a considered underdog, he went on to win the 101st Assembly District post. "Lighting will strike twice here," he told the more than 300 committeemen in attendance at the unofficial convention at the George Washington School as he nominated William C. Mullany for Surrogate Court Judge.

Mullany himself, who said he was asked to make the run at 3 p.m. the same day, said he decided that he would accept the nomination as a lawyer and a citizen. His concern is for the "poor esteem" in which the public, on the heels of Watergate, holds lawyers today. He would like to show that there are good lawyers and what they can do.

Hinchey, noting the upcoming bicentennial, suggested that the Democrats "point a way to a new beginning."

Of the 10 women nominated for the legislature, it was suggested that they would "push the slate, get the male candidates moving and turn Ulster County around."

Previously announced women candidates include Rosendale Trustee Barbara DeStefano, Consumer advocate Belle Sundeen of Wawarsing, Democratic Vice Chairman Kay Quick of the City of Kingston and Mary Messina of Saugerties, active in the League of Women Voters.

The six newly announced female candidates include: Olive attorney Andrea Moran, Pauline Venenzia of Wawarsing, Learline Monteleone, who seeks to represent Lloyd, Marlboro and Plattekill in the new Dist. 9 and to Dist. 8 hopefuls, Barbara Pitt and Valerie Eldridge who want to represent Shawangunk, Gardiner and New Paltz. Also Janet Yallum of the Town of Ulster, who was defeated two years ago in a bid for a legislative post.

Onteora Board Awaiting Aid Figures

By Tim Schuster

WEST HURLEY

The Onteora Central School board of education will hold off on another budget vote until state aid figures are in, according to board president Donald Lawson.

Speaking to a large audience at the West Hurley Elementary School Monday night, Lawson said the board reasoning is not to rush into another proposal as it would be relatively eaningless until voters knew the tax impact. Figures will hopefully be available Aug. 1.

Meanwhile, the board plan is to hold several public informational input meetings, at "both ends of the district," said Lawson, and to garner additional input from a committee composed of staff, both teachers and non-professional, and administrative personnel.

It was revealed that an austerity budget would consist of about $7.2 million, anyway, all state mandated and the most the district could possibly cut from the $7.5 million first proposal would be about $250,000.

Lawson said that two areas primarily affected under an austerity budget, if none is adopted once school begins in September, are transportation and extracurricular activities. Under state law, elementary school students would have to walk up to two miles to school and high school students up to three miles. There would be no sports, music groups, or clubs.

For these reasons, another budget vote will be scheduled sometime between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1.

Speaking of salaries as the largest single item in the budget, Lawson commented, "I'd like to see efficiency, rather than deletion." And on a "rumor" that the board does not intend to submit another budget to voters, he said, "I will personally submit one a month, if that's what it takes."

Some light was shed on the "team approach," used administratively in Onteora Jr.-Sr. High School, outlined by high school principal Carl Brown. It came as partial explanation on the question of changing Brian Lane's job title from "dean of boys" to "assistant principal, Jr.-Sr. high school," which was ultimately approved.

Brown noted that three administrators, himself, Lane, and assistant principal Frank McMartin, divide up duties according to their "strengths," with Brown working primarily with teaching staff and curriculum; Lane working with discipline and "problem kids"; and McMartin with student activity work. The system has been in effect for two years.

The system, said Dr. Frank Marlow, district superintendent, is better than having "two cooks in the kitchen" with overlapping responsibilities, and Lane's new job title will "give him more authority with the staff," he added. He was granted a three-year contract.

The balance of the meeting was largely routine, with the board's apparent policy of allowing anyone in the audience to speak on anything at any time sometimes adding to the confusion.

Herbert Howard, assistant superintendent, announced that Project GATE (Gifted And Talented Education), funded through Title III federal monies, has been approved for Onteora, one of only 35 school districts in New York State's 760 that was approved. It will allow teachers to attend workshops this summer with highly respected professional educators to discuss possible programs for the scholastically and artistically gifted students in the district.

The board approved the resignation of Miss Virginia Slavik, a special education teacher at Bennett School, for retirement after 17 years with the district.

Sixth grade graduations will be held June 19 at Bennett, Phoenicia, and West Hurley schools, and June 20 at Woodstock school; high school commencement is scheduled for June 22, the Onteora district's 22nd annual program.

Special Competition Slated

By Carl Graham

KINGSTON

The Kingston Bicentennial Commission (KBC) and the Kingston Indians will jointly sponsor an elaborate junior drum and bugle corps competition next year as part of the city's bicentennial celebration.

Ralph Shapiro of the Indians said at Monday night's KBC meeting that up to 30 corps would compete in preliminaries on Friday, July 2, 1976, with the top six corps in the Class A and Open classes competing in the finals the following day at Dietz Stadium.

Units from all over the country are expected to be attracted by a prize list totaling $10,500 and to take part in a parade on Saturday, July 3, that will form at the Kingston High School parking lot and follow West O'Reilly-Hoffman,-Pine Grove-Broadway-Albany Avenue-Clinton-Main-Wall-North Front to the stadium. The six finalists in both divisions will win prizes ranging from $750 to $250 in Class A and from $1,500 to $350 in the Open competition. Parade units will compete for 10 prizes ranging from $500 to $150.

Shapiro said the competition would draw at least 5,000 competitors and their followers to the community for the two-day affair, which hopefully would be repeated in 1977 and become a permanent feature in the future.

KBC Chairman Edward Levine said that Kingston had been selected as one of only 32 stops to be made by the New York Bicentennial Barge during 1976, the only stop in Ulster County. Exhibits on the barge commemorating events in the nation's history would by supplemented by a shoreside festival put on by local agencies.

Levine set a meeting for 8 p.m. on Wednesday, June 25, at John A. Coleman High School to form a committee to organize the fetival. Invitations have been sent out to various civic, social and fraternal groups to participate and Levine asked anyone who is interested in helping to attend and take part in the meeting.

Any hopes that President Ford could be persuaded to come to Kingston for a swearing of newly naturalized citizens as a part of the bicentennial celebration were dashed by a letter from his appointments secretary, who said that the heavy schedule anticipated for the President in 1976 made it impossible for him to accept the invitation.

Alice Cross, bicentennial chairwoman for the Junior League of Kingston, described plans for the Bicentennial Ball on April 23, 1977. It will be held in the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue and will include a reenactment of the signing of the state constitution.

Clausi In Race

EAST KINGSTON

Thomas Clausi of East Kingston has announced that he will seek the Democratic nomination for Town of Ulster Highway Superintendent.

Clausi is seeking the post vacated by Edgar Elliot, who resigned last week.

A life-long resident of the Town of Ulster, and a former chief of the East Kingston Volunteer Fire Department, the 48-year-old Clausi said he would strive to "give the people their money's worth for every tax dollar" and would work to insure that all streets and roads in the township are "clear, paved and passable."

In announcing his candidacy, Clausi said he believes that 20 years experience in the construction industry sufficiently prepares him to handle the duties and responsibilities of highway superintendent.

'Confident' Dems Select Mullany

KINGSTON

Confident as never before, Ulster County Democrats nominated a full slate of countywide candidates Monday night and came up with 33 legislative candidates, 10 of whom are women.

The top of the ticket is led by veteran campaigner William C. Mullany, a Kingston lawyer who is making a bid for Surrogate Court Judge.

Another veteran campaigner, County Legislator Lewis C. Kirschner (D-Dist. 5) was nominated for county clerk and an Ellenville Mortician, Stephan Corcoran, is the Democratic nominee for coroner.

The 33 legislative candidates, recommended for nomination in their districts include:

• Dist. 1, Wawarsing, Denning and Hardenburgh—Incumbents, George Barthel and Louis Resnick and newcomer, Pauline Venenzia.

• Dist. 2, Shandaken, Woodstock and the Town of Kingston—Russell Roeffs and James Barton.

• Dist. 3, Saugerties—Incumbent Richard F. Thornton. Also, Mary Messina, David Menzies and Albert Conte.

• Dist. 4. City of Kingston—Four incumbents, Eugene Perry, Larry Kithcart, James Gilpatric and James Dwyer. Also, Democratic vice chairman, Kay Quick and Donald Gregory.

• Dist. 5, Olive, Hurley, Town of Ulster—Former Democratic County Chairman James T. McCardle. Louis Conti, Janet Yallum, Andrea Moran and Jack Kahn.

• Dist. 6, Espous, Rosendale—Incumbent Louis M. Klein. Also, Barbara DeStefano and Joseph Wolf.

• Dist. 7, Rochester and Marbletown—Belle Sundeen, who previously announced her candidacy under the banner of the United Consumer Party and Michael DeBenedetto.

• Dist. 8, Shawangunk, Gardiner, New Paltz—Thomas Nyquist, Victor McCord, Barbara Pitt and Valerie Eldridge.

• Dist. 9, Lloyd, Plattekill, Marlboro—Incumbent Brian R. White. Also Learline Monteleone, James Canino and James Phillips.

Delegates nominated to the Third Judicial Convention include: William Kelly, William C. Mullany, John J. Hogan, Norman Kellar, David Barnovitz, Barry Lippman and Harold C. Brown, chairman of the Ulster County Democrats.

Alternates include: Special City Judge George Beck, Alex J. Nirenberg, City Judge Hubert Richter, Joshua Koplovitz, Andrea Moran, Louis Kahn and Vincent Bradley.

Mullany, who was previously defeated when he ran for councilman in the Town of Ulster and for Family Court Judge two years ago, is a member of the Appeals Board for State Department of Motor Vehicles.

A resident of Elmendorf Heights, he seeks the post now held by Surrogate Arthur A. Davis who is expected to be nominated by Republicans Friday night for another ten-year term.

Mullany said he feels there is a consistancy in his electing to make the bid for Surrogate and his previous try for the Family Court judgeship in that both posts require that the judge deal with family matters. And, Mullany, as one of 11 children and the father of six, feels family relationships are one of his strong points.

He was nominated for the judgeship by Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey who called him compassionate, competent and a man of conviction.

Kirschner, who announced in March that he would seek the position now held by GOP County Clerk Albert Spada, was nominated by County Legislator Louis M. Klein (D-Dist. 6).

Saying he would devote full time to the job, if elected, Kirschner promised to reduce the county clerk's staff, employ security measures, deposit daily all money taken in by that office and "bring the office of the county clerk back to the people." Alluding to Spada's dual role as county clerk and Republican party chairman, Kirschner said he definetly would not seek the Democratic chairmanship.

ORTHMANN SANITARIUM

Due to forces beyond our control, we regret to announce we will no longer be able to operate our facility as a nursing home.

We wish to thank all those who have placed their loved ones under our care, and all those who have contributed to gaining for the Sanitarium the status it has enjoyed over the years.

Edna Scott, R.N.

NOTE: ORTHMANN'S WILL CONTINUE TO ACCEPT APPLICATIONS FOR THOSE SEEKING ACCOMMODATIONS FOR ROOM AND BOARD ONLY.

New Cruisers for Police

KINGSTON

City police got their new cruisers last week—five Plymouth Gran Furies at an average cost to the taxpayers of just under $3,725.

Kingston Chrysler-Plymouth was low bidder at $18,629 at bid opening for the new cars back on March 6. Trade-in allowance on four 1974 Plymouths and a 1973 Buick compact was $9,100, an average of $1,820.

Also bidding on the "police specials," according to Chief Julius M. Glassman, were Michael Chevrolet at $19,505 (net) and Johnson Ford at $19,836.

This is the second year for Plymouths. In 1973 the city leased Buicks from Grimaldi Buick but that was discontinued last year because, according to the chief, "Nobody else was willing to give us a deal like that."

City police are hard on cars. The vehicles are in use 24 hours a day and although only about 50,000 miles is recorded, the mileage on the engine can easily be twice that since the cars are seldom shut off. Maintenance tends to run high along with depreciation, two main reasons why the city's efforts to secure another lease agreement have been unsuccessful.

This year's Plymouth Gran Fury is similiar to the cars traded in except for the 360 engine versus the 383 and the absence of what is known as posi-traction. The cars come equipped with air-conditioning, power steering and power brakes and heavy duty suspension.

Dugout Is Undaunted

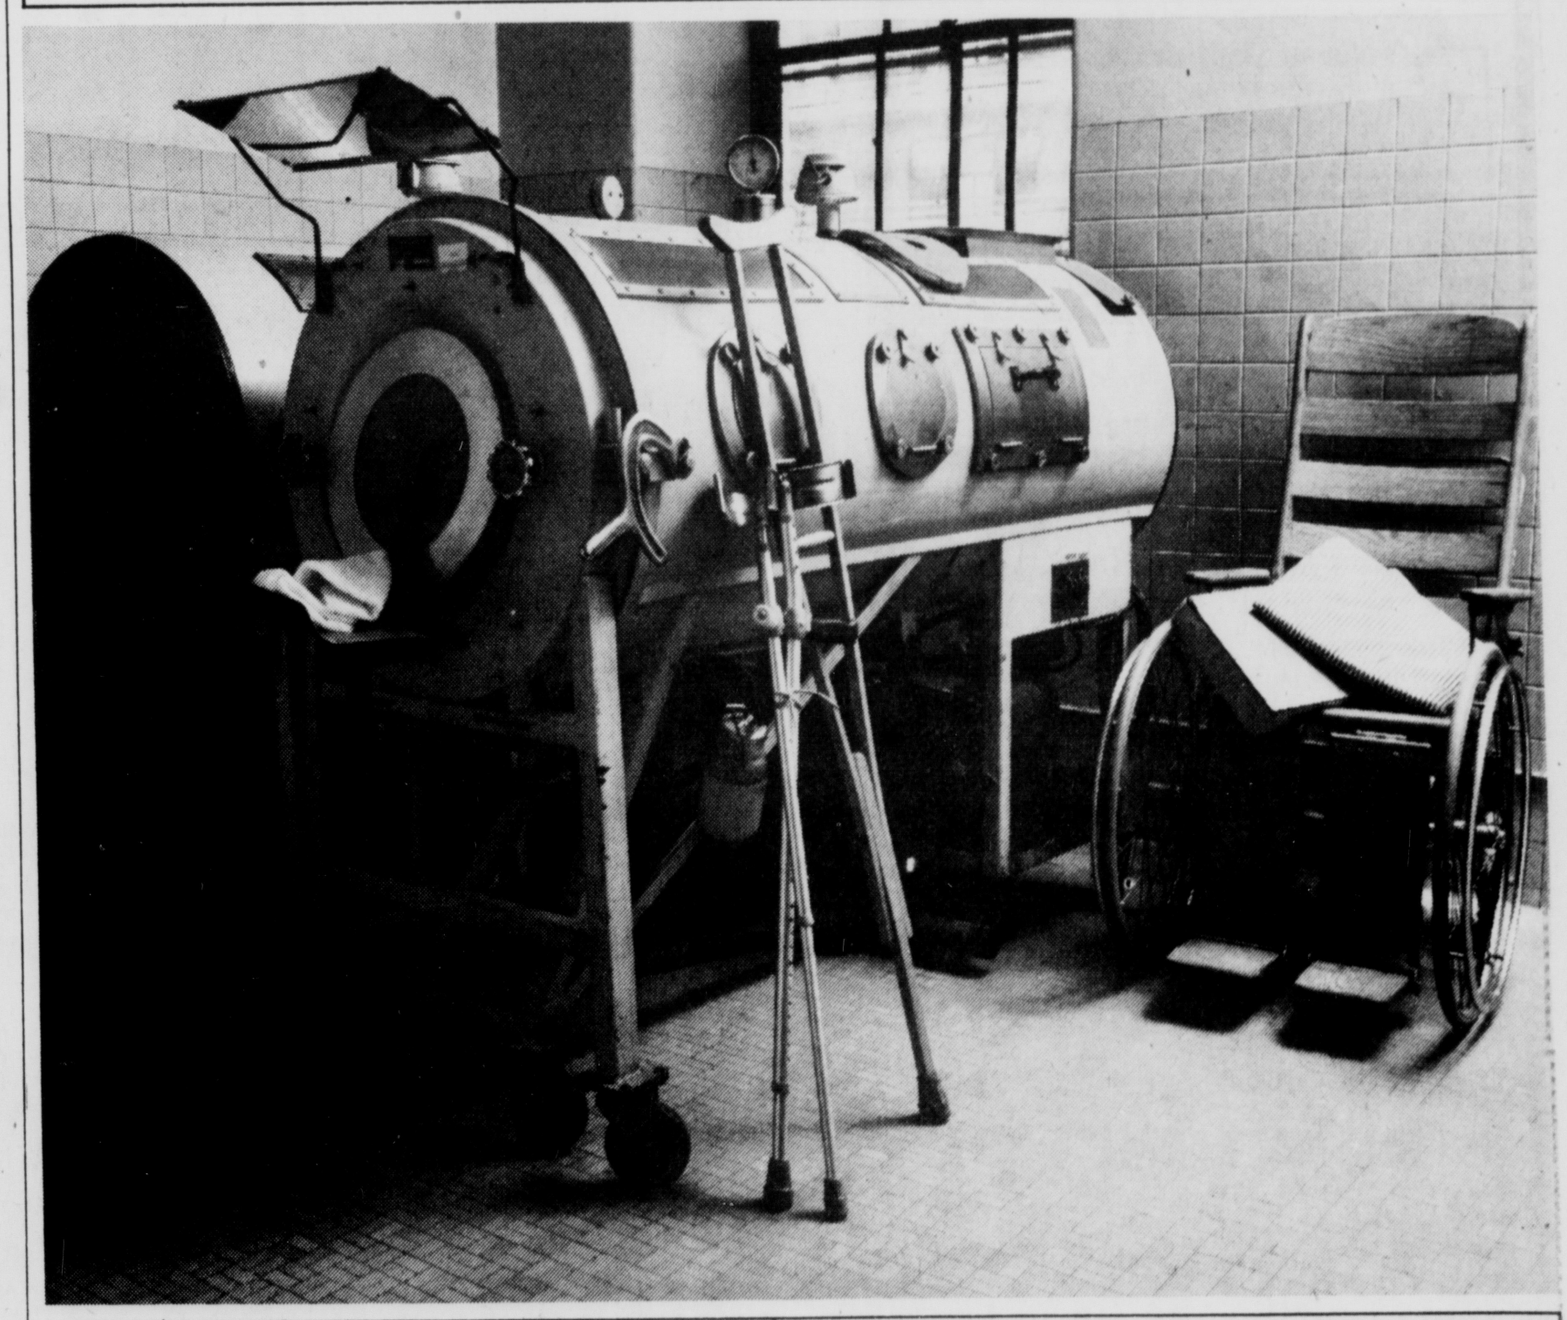
TOWN OF ULSTER

Fire, which started in a broiler, broke out Monday evening at the Bowery Dugout restaurant in the Town of Ulster, causing fire damage in the kitchen. The well-known restaurant will, however, be reopening tonight, according to a spokesman.

Some 50 firemen and seven pieces of equipment from the Ulster Hose No. 5 fire department responded to the blaze at about 6:30 p.m. Firemen said the restaurant was filled with smoke when they reached the scene.

The restaurant was not open when the fire broke out.

Polio isn't dead. It's just sleeping.



Let's finish it for good.

That killer, that "thing of the past" is with us again, and the only reason is that people are getting careless.

The shocking fact is that, right now, 4 out of 10 preschool children are not immunized against polio.

It's so very simple that people are simply forgetting. The results can be tragic.

Some children may get caught. See to it yours don't.

Make sure they get all their immunizations—diphtheria, tetanus, rubella—all of them they need.

And get them when they need them. Before it's too late.

Urban Sprawl

The disturbing thought of urban sprawl affecting the Catskill area a few decades from now only heightens the need for national planning to control and regulate haphazard, self-defeating population shifts.

According to a report issued by the Regional Planning Association of New York, this area can expect encroachment from the south by fugitives from the metropolitan area and from the north by shifts of population from Albany. If current trends continue, a blanket of population stretching from Maine to Florida, all compressed into solid belts, can be expected.

The report goes on to calculate that soon Americans will be living in these continuous urban belts containing more than 100 persons per every square mile. Such population density would be ruinous to the Catskills, a haven for outdoorsmen, naturalists and those who just want to stay close to nature. If it does happen, there goes a way of life.

To avoid this, the association is calling for advanced planning, pegged to the concept of urban centers ring by satellite communities. In such a plan, rural communities can remain rural and continue to be surrounded by real countryside. If a plan such as this is not implemented soon, we can all look forward to a homogenized, amorphous environment lacking completely in diversity and empty of any natural beauty.

Congress and Jobs

It is well that President Ford's veto of the jobs bill will stand.

The bill was loaded down with spending programs of doubtful value. It was a budget-busting bill that would have increased the federal deficit and added to inflation.

The President proposed $2 billion for public service jobs and summer jobs for youth.

The Congress upped the ante to $5 billion by adding such pork barrel items as $440 million for construction and repair of public buildings, $385 million for small business loans, $325 million for public works projects, and money to buy the government 21,000 new automobiles.

The move to override the veto failed in a significan0 vote in the House of Representatives, 277-145, five short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

House Democratic leaders were downcast at the defeat. Now they should move quickly to send the President the kind of stripped-down jobs bill he asked for March 5.

With unemployment at 9.2 per cent and probably still rising, with 9 per cent unemployment predicted for the next several months and with an average of 8.7 per cent predicted for the year, the nation cannot afford any more delay in funding public service jobs and summer jobs.

Many high school and college graduates will be entering the job market this month with their prospects of getting work bleaker than at any time since the great depression.

Optimistic economic forecasts don't help the unemployed much at this point. They don't buy the groceries.

There is no substitute for a permanent job in private industry or government. But a public service or summer job is better than welfare.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Contrasts Between Ford and Nixon

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A recent tete-a-tete aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia illustrates how the atmosphere has changed in Washington.

During the presidency of Richard Nixon, he would invite loyalists aboard the yacht for strategy sessions. Their usual routine was to scheme together against his political enemies. Many a dark intrigue was hatched over brandy and cigars as they cruised down the Potomac.

The other evening, President Ford invited his cabinet for a Potomac cruise. Republican National Chairwoman Mary Louise Smith was invited to join them, and she did a little scheming with the President over coffee and cheesecake.

But Ford was more concerned about being fair to his political enemies than doing them in. Here are a few of the contrasts between Nixon and Ford:

— In 1972, the Nixon crowd conducted espionage, leaked damaging documents and plotted other skullduggery against the two Republicans, Rep. Paul "Pete" McCloskey, R.-Calif., and Rep. John Ashbrook, R.-Ohio, who dared to challenge President Nixon for the nomination. In contrast, President Ford has passed the word to the Republican National Committee to give equal treatment to any rival candidates, such as Ronald Reagan or Sen. Howard Baker, R.-Tenn., who may try to beat him out of his job.

— Nixon concentrated almost the entire Republican effort in 1972 upon re-electing himself, with the result that some Republicans were defeated who could have been saved. This caused bitterness in the GOP ranks after the election. A few days ago, Ford visited again with Chairwoman Smith in his oval office. He wanted her to build a strong party, he stressed, not a Ford cult.

— During the 1972 campaign, Nixon used his White House counsel, John Dean, to obstruct anyone who got in their way. Ford's counsel, Phil Buchen, was instructed to make sure the GOP assisted any Ford rivals who requested it. Buchen immediately relayed the word to the national committee's counsel, ex-Rep. Bill Cramer, R.-Fla.

— During the Watergate era, White House operatives would call upon Republican National Chairman George Bush to perform outrageous chores for Nixon. Witnesses vividly recall Bush losing his usual calm and shouting into the phone: "No! No! No! I won't do it!" Now Ford is so scrupulous that his aides don't dare make an improper request.

— Nixon aides tried to use everything from Navy ships to Air Force planes for political purposes. But if Ford now makes a political appearance during an official trip, he requires the party to pay the expenses, including the cost of operating Air Force One. The GOP shelled out $26,000 for the use of Air Force One, for example, after a recent political jaunt.

— In the old days, the Nixon team dictated to the party where the President would make political appearances. But Ford's aides recently asked Chairwoman Smith where Ford could do the party the most good. Party strategists carefully worked up a list of states they wanted the President to visit, including California, Colorado, Illinois, Missouri, Montana, New York, Oklahoma and Virginia. He hopes to follow their itinerary.

— Under Nixon, the party's ethnic division was loaded with right-wingers, including amiable Laszlo Pastor, formerly a member of Hungary's wartime Nazi youth organization. Most of the unsavory people have now been cleaned out. Pastor has been replaced by former Air Force Col. Julian Niemczyk.

President Ford at least attempts, said an aide, to follow the rule: "When in doubt, do right."

ENERGY BANK: To stimulate the search for new sources of energy, the Ford Administration is seriously considering the creation of a development bank that would help bankroll energy projects.

The whole idea would be to encourage private developers to experiment with solar, shale, coal, gas and other sources of energy, which might reduce the U.S. dependence on foreign oil.

If the developers couldn't find a commercial bank to finance their project, the proposed development bank might provide government funds. Hopefully, this would encourage an energy boom, which not only would produce more energy but also would stimulate the economy.

Energy czar Frank Zarb is now analyzing the proposal for the White House. He will submit his analysis to the Energy Resources Council, which will seek the comments of other government agencies. The Treasury Department, for example, will be asked to analyze the financial feasibility of an energy bank.

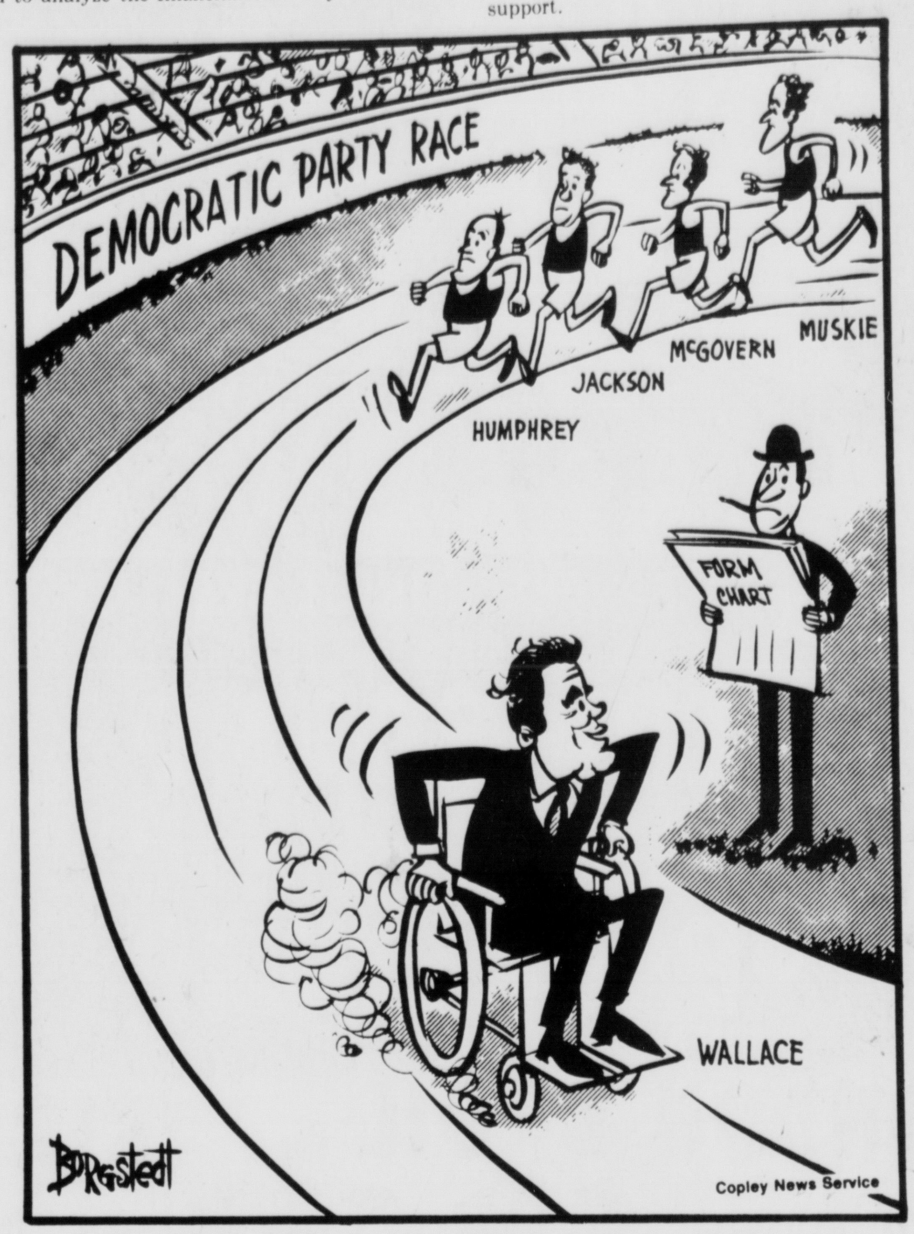
DUMP ALBERT: President Ford is breaking all records for vetoing legislation.

He already has vetoed more bills than either Dwight Eisenhower or John Kennedy, and it will take only one more veto for Ford to catch up with Lyndon Johnson's five-year total of 30.

Yet only four Ford vetoes have been overridden by a Congress that was supposed to be veto-proof.

Disgruntled Democrats, unhappy over Ford's amazing ability to sustain his vetoes, are whispering in the cloakrooms against Speaker Carl Albert. They complain he isn't building a legislative record that the Democrats can run on in 1976.

As a result, a "Dump Albert" movement is beginning to gain support.



"Not bad for a guy in a wheelchair, eh?"

Inside Report

The Reality of George Wallace

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

NEW ORLEANS—The Wallace spectre haunting the Democratic party has now reached such proportions that two highly regarded Democratic governors only slightly to the right of center say privately that Gov. George Wallace of Albama may have to be given the vice presidential nomination next year.

Such apostasy by mainstream Democratic leaders would have been unthinkable a year ago. Yet Wallace's awesome ability to dominate the national governors' conference here simply by his silent presence brings such specualtive assumptions within the realm of possibility.

Wallace's complete politiacl domination of this biennial assembly of his peers was the result of no Wallace plot or ploy. He attended all the governors' sessions in the Fairmont's international ballroom, but said not a word. "I'm not straining any," he told us with a sly grin. "If snybody's straining, it's them."

The straining of "them" produced a series of public statements from anti-Wallace governors, seemingly as thin as a gossamer thread: Wallace's paralysis and associated physical problems automatically rule him out for the vice presidential nomination; Wallace's support is based on hard-core pockets of strength that do not and cannot exceed 25 percent of the national Democratic party; Wallace had a magical touch in appealing to vast numbers of discontented Americans, but pin him down and he has no solutions.

That is gossamer rhetoric, and shrewd Democratic governors here know it. As one of the shrewdest told us privately: "Wallace has now become a deadly serious presidential candidate, not a splinter or a regional candidate, and if Democratic leaders don't realize he is a serious candidate we are all going to regret it."

Yet, with only nine months before the first presidential primaries next year, Wallace —not yet an announced candidate—dwarfs all his announced competitors put together. He now talks about entering most of the 30-odd presidential primaries. One exception is New Hampshire (because, he says, small-state New Hampshire gives too much advantage to the candidate able and willing to exploit massive personal campaigning, which is beyond his physical capability).

In larger states, his physical limitation is not taken seriously by Wallace. His name has been a household word for years, pro or con, and he needs no build-up.

More important, other governors totally agree with Wallace's thesis that the 1976 campaign will parallel with surprising closeness the main political themes he has been thundering for ten years; attacks on "pointy-headed bureaucrats," big government, solving social ills "by throwing large gobs of money" at them.

Wallace's well-worn line that "big government is the enemy of the people," which he used in his only public statement here in a speech to the New Orleans Rotary Club, is remarkably close to the theme now being heard from such new-breed Democratic governors as California's Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown and Richard Lamm of Colorado.

"They've finally woke up to states' rights and the welfare mess and all that spending," he told us. "That's just what I've been saying."

Feeding these ancient Wallace themes are the explosive busing strife in Boston and financial catastrophe in New York City, the two national bastions of liberalism. Except for an occasional caustic wink, Wallace has not yet even begun to exploit these two major political crises.

Anti-Wallace Democrats, accordingly, are sketching this gloomy scenario: a Wallace national primary campaign, with Wallace making a minimum number of personal appearances but supported by heavy purchase of television time, which could bring him to the convention next summer with between one-fourth and one-third of the delegates.

Such a showing by Wallace in next spring's scramble for delegates would present any mainstream opponent with a mathematical nighmare: he would need between 70 and 75 percent of the remaining, anti-Wallace delegates to get nominated.

Wallace, in short, would then be enthroned as potential kingmaker in a convention whose majority loathes everything he stands for, but which would be compelled to make one of two choices: put him on the ticket as vice presidential nominee, or risk the most potent third-party movement since Teddy Roosevelt fragmented the Republican party in 1912.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Browning of Our Fields

WASHINGTON — The television news programs have added a new staple over the past several years: the interview with the farmer who's going busted. The farmeinterviewee alternates from season to season from the cattleman to the corn raiser and back to the cattleman like an infinite, uninformative metronome. In keeping with network news policy of never trying to make sense of what's put on the air, explanations are seldom proferred as to why we have such price volatility that first the man who grows the feed and then the man who raises the livestock which consumes it must take turns going to the wall.

For enlightenment on that we must turn to "The Fields Have Turned Brown: Four Essays on World Hunger," by DeMarco and Sechler (The Agribusiness Accountability Project, 100 Wisconsin Ave. NW., Wash., D.C. 20007, $3.50, with a very helpful bibliography). There we learn that our government's decision to sell out its grain stocks deprived it of the ability to flatten out the swoops and swoons of the price level. This may have gladdened the hearts of pure free enterprisers, but to producer and consumer it has not brought the blessing we were promised would come with the end of agricultural subsidies.

Whether that is the fault of the market system or the quasi-monopolists dominating it may not be as important as the different way of thinking about food embodies in this mimeographed book. Food is politics and economics, not technology and sentiment.

Yet the sweetly simple are still inviting people to those luncheons at which a glass of water and half a soy bean cake are served so that we may experience the diet of an inhabitant of the sidewalks of Calcutta. On the technological side, if the Green Revolution has been significantly less verdant than the Sunday sups told us it would be, even the sophisticates at "Fortune" magazine see future progress as recapitulation of the past: more government research to replace the faltering technology of the agro-industrial giants.

DeMarco and Sechler point out that "in 1968 it took 57,000 tons of nitrogen fertilizer to produce the equivalent crop yield per acre in Illinois that 11,000 tons had produced in 1949. A five-fold increase just to keep the depleted soil at 20-year-old production levels." The current issue of "Fortune" makes the same statement in other terms when it remarks that U.S. agriculture consumes the equivalent of 213,000 barrels of oil a day to make that nitrogen fertilizer. Even Jerry Ford can see there has to be an end to this.

"Fortune's" answer is more capital-intensive, high-cost technology agriculture. How about growing crops with a carbon dioxide gas, it asks, say in the form of "sowing pellets or dry ice in the fields" or by "gas from microcapsules sprayed on plants." Or, you guys in the lab, what about inventing some new vegetables like the pomato, "a tomato-potato plant bearing fruit from above and below ground." For increasing livestock production it seeks a "'Brave New World' for animals" in which cattle embryos would be fertilized in the "reproductive tracts of such 'incubator' animals as rabbits and then transferred to foster mother cows as needed."

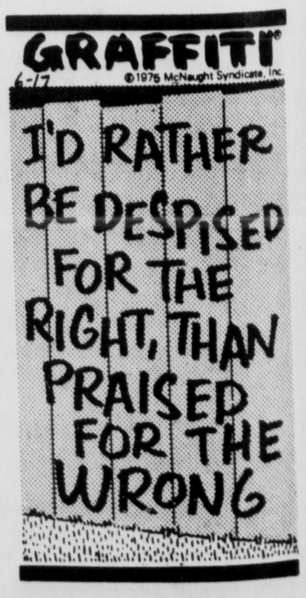
As ugly and impossible as these proposals sound, they may be perfected well enough to yield a cornucopia of tasteless, nutritionally deficient semi-food. But note, they all subsume research programs intended to keep farming an industrial enterprise that is too costly for any but the large corporation to enter or maintain itself in. This is the same mentality that has seen to it that the average chicken — an animal that can be raised anywhere — travels 1,200 miles to market.

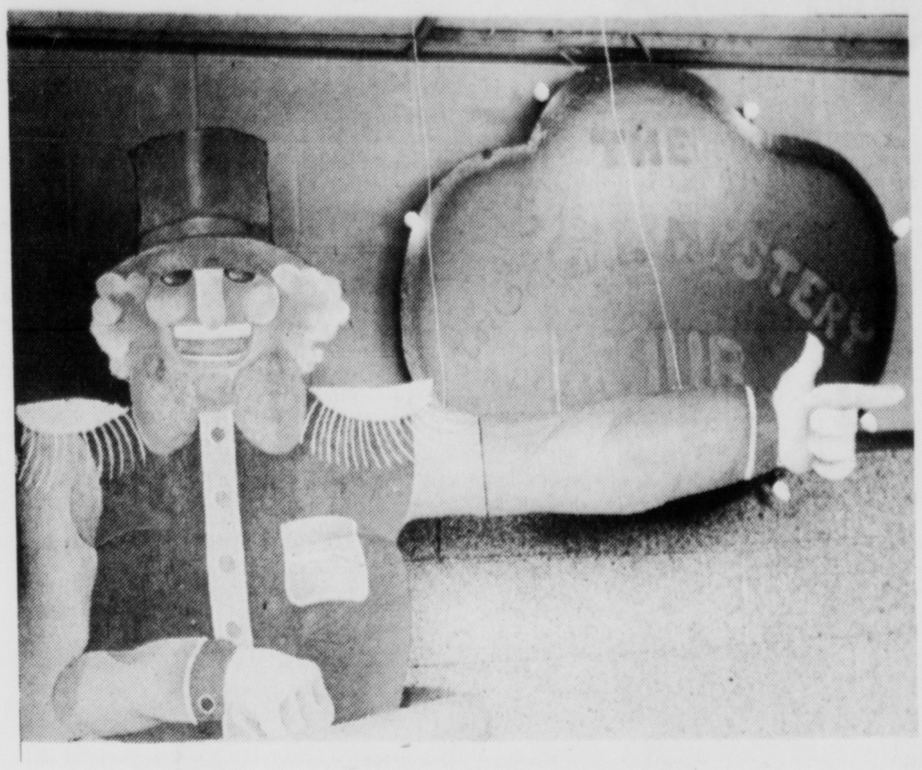
DeMarco and Sechler show that those countries, notably the two Chinas, Egypt, South Korea and Japan, that have opted for non-industrial, small-scale farming are the non-Western nations enjoying the greatest success with their agriculture. Most of the rest, where our economic organization of agriculture has been introduced, have had experiences which range from profoundly disappointing to horrendous. To farm the way we do you have to be wealthy to begin with. Otherwise you can go broke trying to pay for the fancy technology that is supposed to feed you. ". . . Over half the countries on the United Nations list of Most Seriously Affected by the food crisis actually depend on agricultural exports for at least 80 percent of their earnings," DeMarco and Sechler tell us.

Even in Mexico, where the introduction of Gringo farming has raised yields, although not spectacularly, we have "the anomaly of grain surpluses in a country whose farm population goes hungry" (vide "The Elements," June 1975, IPS Transnational, 1901 Q St. NW., Wash., D.C. 10008). With that has come the common phenomenon of rural depopulation.

We have it in our town country too. Land in California irrigated at public expense, for farms not to exceed 640 acres, and Tenneco grabs 350,000 acres of it for industrial cultivation. Think of how many families could make a living off of that land, but, instead, they're in the cities on welfare because we are told that labor intensive agriculture is "economically irrational."

Food is politics, not sentiment, not industrial technology.





Ticket taker, who might have popped out of an animated Beatles cartoon, points the way to "The Magical Mystery Tour" that was the Senior Prom of the Class of '75 at Saugerties High School.

LIFE TODAY

'Picture Yourself' Theme For SHS Prom

By Tobie Geertsema

Picture yourself in a boat on a river with tangerine trees and marmalade skies . . .

Follow her down to a bridge by a fountain where rocking horse people eat marshmallow pies . . .

Newspaper taxis appear on the shore waiting to take you away . . . Climb in the back with your head in the clouds and you're gone . . .

Picture yourself on a train in a station with plasticine porters with looking glass ties . . . Suddenly someone is there at the turnstile . . . The girl with kaleidoscope eyes . . .

Look for the girl with the sun in her eyes and she's gone . . .

* * *

These words with music by John Lennon and Paul McCartney added up to "Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds," perhaps the biggest song hit of 1967. But, if the Beatles have long since disbanded, the exotic fantasies they extolled eight years ago returned to vivid life at the recent Senior Prom of the Class of 1975 at Saugerties High School.

For an undertaking of such proportions, there must be a theme. Last year it was "We Can Fly" with the format lodged in the story of Peter Pan. This year it was "Picture Yourself," the two key words from the song, "Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds" — and everything from the song was represented in the eight huge murals and bigger-than-life constructions of a train, rocking horse people, tangerine trees and other attractions that transformed the cafeteria into a prom scene supreme.

With the prom scheduled for early June, a team of class members began working on the unique decorations in mid-March — and working feverishly almost every night for the last month and a half. The team included David Tate, Pam Knaurt, Peter Wilsey, Marion Scacciaferro, Steve Bogert and Mike Panchak.

That they were successful in carrying out the theme was evident on the night of the prom. As each couple entered the prom area, they boarded a bus set atop a conveyor belt and rode into the prom itself. Leaving the bus, they found a day-glo ticket counter presided over by a smiling cardboard man pointing the way to "The Magical Mystery Tour." And it was a tour of whirling colors, dominated by eight massive murals, life-size porters weighted down with baggage, strange creatures with human heads and horse bodies munching on marshmallow pies, and tangerine slices hanging from trees.

Much of the work on the prom sets had been done in the auxiliary gym and in a hall outside the school. The senior class paid all the bills for the materials needed from monies raised by selling magazine subscriptions. It is a tribute to their salesmanship that they sold $21,000 worth of magazines. The money paid for a class trip to New York City to see the '50s musical, "Grease," and other tourist attractions. It also paid for a billboard on Route 9W in tribute to Gordon Fyhr, English teacher at Saugerties High and advisor to the Class of '75, who the set construction team gives a lot of credit for the success of their project. And it paid for the $1,200 the prom set and decorations cost the class.

It was a small price for keeping a tradition alive. And, to the graduating seniors of Saugerties, it's important that their annual prom takes place at home. Says David Tate, "We prefer having it right here instead of somewhere else. You see your own work and your own progress, and you get a lot out of doing it this way."

And there must be a certain amount of chauvinistic satisfaction, too, in Saugerties this month when the local residents compare the prom held in their high school cafeteria with the first senior prom ever held at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. Susan Ford's senior prom at the White House cost her classmates $1,300 from money raised from bake sales and other projects. The Saugerties prom was in the same high-flying league after adding up the $1,200 cost for sets and decorations, and the additional sums that went into refreshments and hiring the band.

That's keeping up with the Joneses . . . and with the Fords, too.

The girl with the sun in her eyes sports a looking glass tie and a hat that serves as a reminder that she's part of the Magical Mystery Tour.

This strange-looking creature is one of the "rocking horse people" that eats "marshmallow pies." Everything mentioned in the lyrics of the sone, "Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds," was incorporated into the "Picture Yourself" theme of this year's Senior Prom in Saugerties.

Pam Knauert, who was responsible for the sketches and art work involved in constructing the Saugerties Senior Prom sets, checks out a "plasticine porter with a looking glass tie."

20th Anniversary

The Ladies Auxiliary of Tillson Volunteer Fire Company observed its 20th anniversary recently at a dinner in the Capri '400' Restaurant in Port Ewen. During the past two decades, since the October 1955 flood when members supplied relief with food and shelter for area victims, the Auxiliary has been active in assisting the fire company. In times of fire, floods and during other catastrophies within the district, members have been on hand to give aid wherever needed. The Auxiliary has helped maintain and supply a modern kitchen in the firehall, and at all activities during the year has given considerable time and talent to make the Tillson Fire District outstanding in its operation. Among those attending the dinner were (l-r) Helen Banach, president; Dorothy Natoli, vice president; Ann Schwedner, secretary; Edna Eggers, treasurer; Beulah Harvey, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Frank Rowe Jr. was in charge o arrangements. (Freeman photo).

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Your dictionary definition of "bachelor" is not sufficient. There are terms that legally define the marital status of a man or woman, and they are the following:

A single man or single woman is one who has NEVER been married.

An unmarried man or woman is one who has been legally divorced. (The status does not change to "unmarried" until the final decree is issued.)

A married man or woman is one who is legally married.

A widower or widow is one who has lost his or her spouse through death and has not remarried.

And in conclusion, let me say that a divorced man who goes around calling himself a "bachelor" should be hauled into court and sued for misrepresenting himself.

BROOKS NO NONSENSE

DEAR BROOKS: You can haul a man into court, but it pwon't do you any good unless you can prove damages.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married five years, and we've decided that we do not want any children. My husband had a vasectomy last year. We are happy about it, but the problem is his mother.

She is always bugging us about having a baby. (She has grandchildren from another son, so it's not as though we're depriving her of having any.)

We just can't tell my mother-in-law about the vasectomy. She'd never understand. She keeps asking us what's wrong, whose fault is it, or lots of similar questions. We keep putting her off.

My parents know about the vasectomy. They understand and agree that we shouldn't tell his mother.

Help us, Abby. How can we tell her (in a nice way) that it's none of her business?

CHILDLESS BY CHOICE

DEAR CHILDLESS: There's no "nice" way to tell someone it's none of his business. It is your right to remain childless, and your choice of contraception is strictly your own business. Tell your mother-in-law that you do not plan on having children because you don't want any. Don't apologize or explain. And if she doesn't understand, that's HER problem.

DEAR ABBY: Last year I found a hat in a snowy field. It is a very good hat and, according to the label, had been made in Inverness, Scotland. It is exactly my size, so I took it home, had it cleaned and blocked, and have become very fond of it.

Today I wore it to a neighbor's home. He remarked that he had had a hat just like mine for years and had lost it in a snowy field last year. I am convinced that it is his hat.

My question: Who should have the hat? My wife says, "Finders, keepers." I know the original owner would like it back, so I am asking for your advice.

J.C.

DEAR J.C. Had you not found the original owner, I'd have agreed, "Fi nders, keepers." But since you also found the man who lost it, return it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Charles Libove and Nina Lugovoy

Talented Duo To Make Appearance At Maverick Party

By Dorothy A. Narel

In 1965 Charles Libove, violinist, and Nina Lugovoy, pianist, played with the Philharmonic Trio on the occasion of Maverick Concerts' 50th anniversary.

It has been announced the widely acclaimed team will be performing August 24 in celebration of Maverick's 60th anniversary celebration. In addition, the talented duo will be making an appearance for Maverick's 60th anniversary fund-raising party on Saturday, June 21st. Festivities will get underway for the fund-raising party at 5 p.m. in Maverick Hall, Woodstock. Also appearing on the program with the Libove-Lugovoy team will be Karl Kraber, flautist, and Vladimir Padwa, pianist.

The evening will include a champagne reception, buffet dinner and dancing to the music of Mark's Black Quintet.

Charles Libove and Nina Lugovoy (Mrs. Libove) have been described as "superlative musicians." Their concerts have concluded with standing ovations, their credentials are beyond reproach and while they work as a team, they are both solo artists.

The Liboves have maintained a residence in the Woodstock hamlet of Shady for a number of years.

Among those planning to attend the June 21st program will be Mr. and Mrs. Leon Barzan, Mr. and Mrs. William Kroll and Ilse Sass. Many will remember when Sass, Barzan and Kroll appeared in innumerable Maverick concerts down through the years. Violinist Kroll will be performing once again on August 14 with Nadia Reisenberg, pianist.

The appearance of Charles Libove and Nina Lugovoy proves once more that music for Maverick Concerts was and still is maintained at a very high level.

Reservations for Maverick's fund-raising party may be made through Mrs. Rose Koplovitz, 16 Oriole Drive, Woodstock.

Highlights of Sorosis Reviewed at Anniversary

Sorosis Club celebrated th 60th Anniversary of the formation of the club at a luncheon at the Wiltwyck Country Club on Tuesday, June 10.

Mrs. Clifford Clifford Henze, assisted by Mrs. William Rylance, Mrs. William Markle and Mrs. Alvin Messersmith, reviewed highlights of the Club's activities throughout the 60 years.

Originally the name of the Club was a Seneca Indian word, Soiskanishade, meaning "Gathering of Women." A few years later the name was changed because it proved to be too difficult to pronounce and the name SOROSIS, having the same meaning as Soiskanishade, was used.

Mrs. Grover Lasher is the only surviving charter member of the club. She continues to be an active, contributing member and an inspiration to the Club.

In the early days Kingston had four or more active women's study clubs. These included the Twentieth Century Club which still holds regular meetings; the Lowell Club; the Atharhacton Club, the Monday Study Club and the Coterie Club which Mrs. Lasher says was very exclusive,. Many of these clubs belonged to Federated Women's Clubs, but in 1975 Sorosis is the only Federated Women's Club in Kingston although Saugerties, New Paltz and Rosendale clubs belong to the Federation and support its projects.

Past presidents of Sorosis include Mrs. Arthur Laidlaw, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. Frank L. Meagher, Mrs. Clarence Duhm, Mrs. Conrad Heiselman, Mrs. Cora Drake, Mrs. Harry P. Van Wagenen, Miss Lucinda Merritt and Mrs. Henry Millonig Jr.

Special honor was given to Mrs. Grover Lasher. Miss Martha Freer read a poem written especially for her and a potted plant was presented to her by the State Federation.

Mrs. Clifford Henze turned the gavel over to the newly elected president, Mrs. Henry Eighmey. Other new officers are Mrs. Vicent Carr, vice-president and program chairman; Mrs. Walter Danford, recording secretary; Mrs. Herbert V. W. Darrow, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. James S. Shelhorse, treasurer.

Meetings of Sorosis are suspended during the summer and will begin again in September.

Plaque Honoring B.H. Terwilliger Unveiled at Local Museum

The reopening of the Local History Museum of the Ellenville Public Library and Museum recently was highlighted by the unveiling of a plaque commemorating the efforts of former Board President Benjamin H. Terwilliger in preserving the heritage of the area. Library Board President Anthony V. Percoco introduced Mrs. Grace Terwilliger and her two sons, John an William Terwilliger, who unveiled the plaque.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony involved both Miss Katharine T. Terwilliger, chairman of the Museum Committee, and Mr. Percoco, who subsequently led the audience in the Pledge of Allegiance. The Rev. Arthur Marshall, representing the Clergy Association of the Town of Wawarsing, gave the invocation. Mrs. Marion M. Dumond, library director, spoke briefly about the history of the Museum and the dedication of its staff. Bicentennial activities in the Town of Wawarsing and the school district were outlined by Town Historian Katharine Terwilliger, who then introduced Kenneth Hasbrouck, Ulster County Historian. Mr. Hasbrouck commended the Library Board of Trustees and Miss Terwilliger for their interest and foresight in preserving artifacts o Ellenville history, especially in this time of the Bicentennial. He then presented th flag and scroll, which are part of the Town of Wawarsing's official designation as a Bicentennial community, to Franklin D. Sahler, supervisor of the Town of Wawarsing.

Approximately 50 people attended the reopening and participated in the informal social hour which followed the ceremony.

Election of Officers

Election of officers took place at a recent meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Company No. 3, Lake Hill. Steering activities for the year will be: Mrs. Louis Buscher, re-elected president; Mrs. Roger Yarter, re-elected vice president; Mrs. H. Phillip Eighmey, recording secretary; Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey, treasurer; Mrs. Sidney Slayton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Alfred Ostrander, sunshine chairman; Miss Rose Tagner and Mrs. Douglas Eighmey, executive committee.

The group's next meeting is planned for June 24 at 8 p.m. at the firehouse. All ladies residing in the towns. of Shady, Lake Hill and Willow are invited.

Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey has been named chairman of the annual rmmmage sale to be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 5.

Kareem's Wish Was Cooke's 'Impossible Dream'

INGLEWOOD,Calif. (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has gotten his wish.

Taking advantage of Jabbar's desire to get out of Milwaukee, the Los Angeles Lakers acquired the disgruntled 7-2 superstar Monday in a blockbuster six-player deal with the Bucks.

"I hope I can live up to the buildup," Jabbar told a packed Forum news conference.

"This is the impossible dream," said Jack Kent Cooke, the flamboyant Lakers owner whose club finished last in the NBA's Pacific Division last season.

"I feel almost any team with a Kareem Abdul-Jabbar on it will be a winning team and a contender," Los Angeles coach Bill Sharman added. "And, certainly, we hope a championship team."

In addition to Jabbar, the Lakers obtained a backup center, 6-11 Walt Wesley, an eight-year veteran, from Milwaukee.

They shipped 7-1 Elmore Smith, a disappointment in his two years at Los Angeles, and guard-forward Brian Winters, a member of the NBA all-rookie team last season, along with their two first-round draft choices this year, Dave Meyers of UCLA and Junior Bridgeman of Louisville, to the Bucks.

The Bucks feared they would lose the 28-year-old Jabbar, who has a six-year pro scoring average of 30.4 points, to the ABA after his five-year contract ran out in 1977.

"We have been facing the certainty of having to trade Kareem either this year or next," said Milwaukee president William Alverson. "Under those circumstances, it seemed to us that now was the time to get the best return package."

"There's no doubt that we regret seeing Kareem go," Bucks' general manager Wayne Embry said. "But we had to be realistic and know that he wanted to leave."

Jabbar, who reportedly was making $400,000 a year at Milwaukee, said that he has signed a new five-year contract with the Lakers.

However, the terms of his new pact were not revealed and the bearded giant with the unstoppable 15-foot skyhook would not disclose if it carried an option clause as he had in Milwaukee.

A member of the Islamic faith, Jabbar last season asked the Bucks to trade him to either New York or Los Angeles. "Culturally what I'm about and what Milwaukee is about are not compatible," he said.

The three-time NBA MVP admitted New York, where he starred at Power Memorial High School before going on to lead UCLA to three straight NCAA titles, was his first choice.

"I had strong desires to go home," he said. "I wanted to go to New York and play in the Garden. That's been kind of a dream of mine since I started playing basketball.

"But the way things worked out, the Lakers, especially Mr. Cooke, were very, very interested in me and made a very sincere, determined effort to get me. They wanted me and they tried to make me feel at home.

"In New York, this just wasn't the case. I don't think it's smart to go around people who don't really want you. So here I am."

Jabbar is the second unhappy superstar center to be acquired by the Lakers in seven years. On July 9, 1968, they got 33-year-old Wilt Chamberlain, the greatest scorer and rebounder in the history of the NBA, for Darrel Imhoff, Archie Clark and Jerry Chambers.

Chamberlain played five seasons with the Lakers and led them to their only NBA title in their 15-year history in Los Angeles.

Cooke said the Lakers' ability to acquire players like Jabbar and Chamberlain year ago did not undermine pro basketball's draft system.

"You'd be very surprised if you went through and saw how many first-round draft choices are still with the teams that chose them," the Laker owner said.

"I think this is a healthy thing. It's a healthy thing for the fans and for the NBA."

A year ago, the Lakers failed to make the playoffs for the first time since being moved here from Minneapolis in 1960.

Jabbar led the Bucks to a four-game sweep of Baltimore for the NBA championship in his second year but suffered last season, to . Milwaukee lost 13 of its first 16 games while Jabbar was sidelined with a broken hand and wound up last, and out of the playoffs, in the Midwest Division.

Whether he wanted to be or not, Jabbar was a one-man team in Milwaukee. The Lakers have some talent—Happy Hairston, Gail Goodrich, Lucius Allen and Kermit Washington— returning, but it figures to be pretty much the same proposition for him in Los Angeles.

ABA Draft: DeBusschere Knows Score

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave DeBusschere may be in his first season as the American Basketball Association commissioner, but he already knows what the game is all about.

At the conclusion of Monday's ABA draft, DeBusschere said flippantly, "Now all they have to do is go out and sign these phenoms."

He realizes the enormity, and expense, of the task.

Some teams probably cannot afford their No. 1 picks, for instance the Memphis franchise is being run by the league and its continued existance is in doubt. Others must offer enough to lure underclassmen out of college.

But, in the bidding for the top two college players, the Denver Nuggets are representing the ABA well.

The Nuggets are believed to have their No. 1 pick, 7-foot Marvin Webster of Morgan State, all wrapped up. Denver, with a bonus pick obtained for allowing the Spirits of St. Louis to sign Marvin Barnes last year, made Webster, nicknamed "The Human Eraser" for his shot-blocking and rebounding, the first choice in the ABA draft.

The Virginia Squires, one of the ABA's poverty pockets, then chose North Carolina State's David Thompson, who it is doubtful they can afford.

It appears the Squires picked Thompson with an eye toward making a deal with Denver if the Nuggets can land last season's UPI College Player of the Year. Thompson led the Wolfpack to the NCAA championship in 1974, the same year Webster carried Morgan State to the Division II title.

The Nuggets' NBA competition for Webster and Thompson comes in the form of the Atlanta Hawks, who also own the rights to Denver's second-round choice, Bill Willoughby of Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood, N.J.

Following last month's NBA draft, when Denver was mentioned as Atlanta's competition in signing Thompson and Webster, Hawks president John Wilcox said, "I didn't know they had a team. You never see them on TV."

But Denver General Manager Carl Scheer promised Monday: "They (the Hawks) may never have seen us, but we plan on them hearing a lot about Denver before this month's over.

"I'm hopeful we can announce the signing of Marvin soon," Scheer said Monday, but he is thought to be more than just hopeful.

Thompson is known to want N.C. State's 5-7 guard Monte Towe to get a crack at pro ball, so Denver strengthened its bid for the Wolfpack star by also drafting his tiny teammate, just as Atlanta had done in the NBA.

If the Nuggets are able to sign Thompson, Denver players mentioned as possibilities in a compensation deal are guard Mack Calvin, center Mike Green and swingman Jan Van Breda Kolff.

Virginia had a second choice in the first round, acquired from Denver in a previous trade, and selected Pittsburgh's 6-7 freshman Melvin Bennett, who the Squires are extremely confident they will sign.

The ABA, which does not have a hardship clause similar to the NBA, can draft any underclassman or high school graduate and four were taken in the first round.

In addition to Bennett, Memphis made Oregon State's 6-7 Lonnie Shelton the surprise third pick in the ABA proceedings and San Antonio grabbed burly 6-7 freshman Mark Olberding of Minnesota while Maryland's 6-3 All-America junior guard John Lucas was taken by the New York Nets.

None of four underclassmen had applied for the NBA's hardship draft.

San Diego's first-round pick was Kentucky's 6-5 Kevin Grevey and St. Louis took 6-3 guard Gus Williams of Southern California. Utah picked 6-7 forward Steve Green from Indiana's once-beaten Hoosiers of last season, while the Indiana Pacers made Central Michigan's 6-8 Dan Roundfield their first-round pick.

Kentucky, the ABA champion, concluded the first-round by picking 6-9 Hawaii senior Jim Baker.

'Amorous Public Behavior'

This picture published last week in the tabloid Maley Mail showing Muhammad Ali kissing one of his fans, C. L. Lee, prompted a flurry of angry letters from devout Moslems. Ali was criticized for "amorous public behavior" unbecoming a Moslem. Incident took place in the lobby of the Hilton Hotel. The champ is in Malaysia to defend his title against Joe Bugner. (UPI)

Yankees' Bats Are Healthy

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees may have lots of aching bodies but their bats remain perfectly healthy.

Even with several of their starters sidelined by injuries, the Yankees managed to pound out 13 hits Monday night and down the Milwaukee Brewers 10-7. The victory left the second-place Yankees a game behind Boston, which beat Detroit 6-2 in 12 innings, in the American League East standings.

With starting outfielders Bobby Bonds, Elliott Maddox and Roy White hobbled by leg injuries, Graig Nettles and Ron Blomberg picked up the slack by combining for five hits and six runs batted in.

Nettles, on a tear the past three weeks, had two hits, including a three-run homer in a five-run sixth inning rally, and Blomberg, just off the disabled list and still favoring an injured shoulder, rocketed three more hits, including a pair of doubles, and drove in three runs.

Kerry Dineen, a defensive specialist called up from the minors Sunday as an emergency outfield replacement, also stoked three hits and now is 4-for-8 in the majors.

With one out in the sixth and trailing 6-5, Dineen and Walt Williams singled off loser Ed Sprague and both scored on Blomberg's double. Ed Rodriguez then walked Thurman Munson and one out later, Nettles belted his 10th homer.

The Yankees scored also five runs in the second inning, routing Pete Broberg. Singles by Chris Chambliss and Nettles and walks to Rick Dempsey, Jim Mason and Dineen forced in a two runs and brought in Sprague. An infield out and singles by Blomberg and Munson capped the scoring.

The Brewers weren't any slouches at the plate, either. Gorman Thomas crashed a grand slam homer in the fourth off Rudy May after singles by Hank Aaron and Charlie Moore and a walk to Tommy Bianco. Robin Yount, who had two hits to raise his average to .319, singled and that brought on Dick Tidrow, who gained his third victory without a loss with five innings work.

Milwaukee took a 6-5 lead in the fifth when George Scott singled and was forced at second by Aaron, who went to third on Bob Darwin's single and scored on Moore's sacrifice fly. Darwin went to second on a wild throw and scored on Pedro Garcia's single.

In other American League games, Minnesota topped Oakland, 7-6; Baltimore whipped Cleveland, 8-3; and Boston defeated Detroit, 6-2, in 12 innings. California at Kansas City was postponed by rain and threat of tornadoes.

Los Angeles downed Houston, 4-2, Cincinnati routed Atlanta, 9-2, Pittsburgh crushed St. Louis, 10-4, Chicago defeated Philadelphia, 9-7, and San Diego topped San Francisco, 7-1, in the only scheduled National League action.

Larry Hisle's two-run single in the ninth inning capped a three-run rally and gave the Twins their win. Hisle also had his 10th homer in the first inning.

Brooks Robinson and Lee May each hit a three-run homer to lead Baltimore over Cleveland and help Jim Palmer register his 11th win.

Juan Beniquez led off the 12th inning with a triple to trigger a four-run rally that carried Boston over Detroit. Rick Burleson's sacrifice fly scored Beniquez and Rico Petrocelli later delivered a two-run double.

Joe Morgan pounded out three hits, one his ninth homer, and drove in four runs Monday as the Reds bombed Atlanta to remain 3½ games ahead of LA in the NL West.

Homers by Rennie Stennett, Willie Stargell and Al Oliver paced Pittsburgh's 15-hit attack in the win over St. Louis.

Steve Garvey's two-run homer in the seventh inning elevated Los Angeles over Houston and enabled Don Sutton to win his 11th game.

Tim Hosley, Andy Thornton, Jerry Morales, and Manny Trillo homered for the Cubs in their victory over the Phils.

Rick Folkers scattered 10 hits and slammed a key two-run single as the Padres tripped the Giants.

The Weird Philly IVB

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Tom Jenkins won the Philadelphia IVB Golf Classic Monday, Bob Wynn blew it and Johnny Miller almost stole it.

But when it was all over, you had a hard time telling the winners from the losers.

It was that kind of a tournament.

It took three days to start at the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club because of rainy weather.

The 36-hole final Monday was played under the threat of more rain which started just about the time Jenkins was scrambling for a par on the 17th and bogeying the 18th to gain the $30,000 first prize by one stroke over Miler.

When Jenkins finished with a final round at one-over-par 72 and a nine-under-par 275 total, he sat and talked quietly and calmly about his first victory in three years on the pro tour which "I felt like I'd lost" after nine holes.

Miller talked about how he "wasn't disappointed" because his second place finish, after coming from five strokes off the pace, gained him more Ryder Cup points and the $17,100 moved him ahead of Jack Nicklaus to the top of this year's money winning list at $179,630.

Wynn had a two-stroke lead until he suffered a frustrating quadruple bogey eight on the 17th to finish at 277, two strokes back. So he ruefully, but cheerfully, talked about how his first tour victory had slipped away.

Jenkins shot a three-under-par 69 in Monday's third round to maintain a five-stroke margin over his pursuers going into the last 18 holes.

But he suffered a double-bogey on the sixth hole when his drive hit a tree in the left rough. After he birdied the seventh, he bogeyed the eighth and made the nine hole turn one-over for the round.

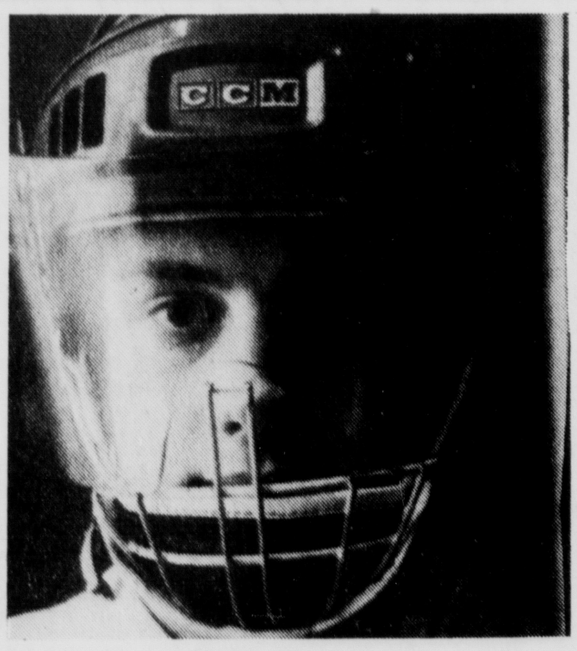
Meanwhile, Wynn who was playing far ahead of Jenkins and was nine strokes behind him starting the day, was burning up the course. After 12 holes of the final 18, he actually had a two-stroke lead.

Wynn then came to the 16th where he scratched for a par and said afterwards,"I guess I was starting to choke."

On the 17th, his drive went into a fairway bunker. Trying to come out he hit the lip of the trap. His third shot hit a tree. His fourth shot landed in a bunker by the green. He came out then chipped two feet past the pin and missed coming back. He finally put in a five-footer.

"Jeez, what a hole," said Wynn. "Now I'll go to California, get a haircut and lay in the sun for three weeks."

Jenkins said he had "50 coaches" in the gallery at the 11th tee telling him about Wynn's problems. When he got a birdie on that hole to go back at 10 under, he said later: "I regained my confidence."



NHL Hopeful

Greg Neeld, who lost an eye playing hockey as a Junior demonstrates his newly designed helmet which his father made while he awaits a final decision on whether he can play with the Buffalo Sabres who picked him up in the fourth round of this year's amateur draft. The NHL rules committee cleared the way for him to play, but the final decision was not expected until the 18 NHL governors vote today.

Another Record For Bobby Orr

MONTREAL (UPI) — At the ripe old age of 27, Boston Bruins defenseman Bobby Orr added another to his long list of records Monday by being named to the National Hockey League's first-team All-Stars for the eighth consecutive year.

Orr and right-winger Guy Lafleur of the Montreal Canadiens were the only unanimous choices of the Professional Hockey Writers voting in the league's 18 cities.

The Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers were the only club with two men on the first team, captain Bobby Clarke at center and Vezina Trophy winner Bernie Parent in goal.

Defenseman Denis Potvin of the New York Islanders and left-wing Rick Martin of the Buffalo Sabres completed the squad. Each first-team all-star receives $2,000 from the league.

Orr, who led the NHL in scoring last season with 46 goals and 89 assists for 135 points, broke the record he held with former Montreal and New York Rangers defenseman Doug Harvey, who was a first-team choice seven straight years during his career.

Orr also appears a shoo-in for the Norris Trophy as the league's outstanding defenseman for the eighth consecutive time in his nine years in the NHL, all with Boston.

The trophy winners will be announced Wednesday, the third day of the league's annual meeting which began here Monday.

Orr only failed to make the first team his rookie season (1966-67), when he made the second squad.

Along with Orr, repeaters from last year's first team were Parent and Martin.

Lafleur and Potvin made the first-team for the first time in their careers, while Vachon, Salming, Robert and Vickers also were first-time selections.

Clarke and Esposito changed places this year, with the high scoring Boston center slipping from first to second team after six straight first-team selections, despite ending the regular season only eight points behind Orr in the scoring race. He had a league-leading 61 goals, plus 66 assists, for 127 points.

The all-star balloting is based on five points for a first place choice, three for second and one for third.

Second-team selections get $1,000.

Greenberg: I'm Innocent

NEW YORK

Leon Greenberg, 49, president of Monticello Raceway, pleaded innocent Monday to charges he fraudulently billed the raceway for his son's Bar Mitzvah in 1970.

Federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardi released Greenberg in the custody of his lawyer and gave him 10 days to file motions.

Greenberg, a lawyer and former Sullivan County assistant district attorney, was indicted early this month on five charges of mail fraud and conspiracy. Cited as unindicted co-conspirators in the indictment were Paul Grossinger, president of the Grossinger resort hotel, and Bernard Roth, the hotel's chief financial officer.

Greenberg, who lives in Monticello, was accused of conspiring with Grossinger to have the raceway pay $4,800 of the $5,800 bill for Andrew Greenberg's Bar Mitzvah at the otel in November, 1970.

If convicted, Greenberg would face penalties of up to five years in prison and fines amounting to $14,000.

Four Straight Wins For Nagasaki A Bombs

KINGSTON

They dodged the raindrops in the City Slo Pitch League Monday night and in the evening's feature game, unbeaten Nagasaki A Bombs won their fourth straight by dumping previously unscathed Potter Bros., 3-1, in the C Division.

In other games, H & M TV topped Gov. Clinton Cleaners, 6-2, Amato's Trucking topped Polacco's, 15-6, Pier Seven Giants trimmed Terri's Deli, 10-6, and Pier Seven Reds forfeited to Delaware Deli.

Chris Farrell tossed a three hitter and drove in one of the runs for Nagasaki as it sent Potter Bros. to defeat.

A two-run single by Nick Camper produced the winning runs for H & M Winning pitcher Paul Richers led the offensive barrage with two doubles and two singles.

Rick Parisi drove in three runs as he, Steve Longendyke, and Joe Fiore knocked out three hits apiece for Amato's. Chuck Polacco homered for the losers.

Joe O'Shaugnessy slammed two singles and a homer lifting the Giants over Terri's.

Maines' Triple Powers Pepperidge Farm Squad

SAUGERTIES

Tom Maines slammed a game-winning, two-run triple in the bottom of the seventh inning to boost Pepperidge Farm to a 7-6 victory over Lee Electric in the SAA Softball League's C Division. It was the first loss after four wins for the Electricians.

In other games, Sperl's Pakkers topped Eveready Beverages, 14-13, and Rosner's Oasis bombed Ted's Exxon, 14-2.

The Pakkers overcame a nine run deficit as Gary Sperl homered to spark the rally. Tom Silk belted a home run for the losers.

John Hinchey's two-run shot was all the offense Ted's could muster against winner Al Scott. Chang Myers slapped four hits to lead Rosner's.

Little Shines In Rondout BR

KYSERIKE

A fine relief job by Earl Little helped carry Davenport's to an 11-5 victory over Johnny on the Spot in the Rondout Valley Babe Ruth League.

Little, in his first pitching chore, hurled 4⅓ innings allowing only one hit and striking out six. He got the win when his mates rallied from a 5-3 deficit to score four runs in the fourth and four more in the fifth.

All-Star Vote Tight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five of eight starting positions for the American League All-Star team remain in doubt following the release of the week's standings.

The outfield race is tightest. New York's Bobby Bonds has forged into the lead with 258,141 votes, just 521 ahead of Joe Rudi of Oakland and only 2,855 ahead of Jeff Burroughs of Texas. Oakland's Reggie Jackson dropped to fourth after leading a week ago, but his 249,413 total is in striking distance. Hank Aaron dropped from second place a week ago to sixth.

The leaders at infield position are: Thurman Munson, New York catcher; Lee May, Baltimore first baseman; Rod Carew, Minnesota second baseman; Sal Bando, Oakland third baseman; Bert Campaneris Oakland shortstop.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Swint's Hot Hitting Jaycee LL Highlight

KINGSTON

John Swint continued his heavy hitting for Charles Ramsey Corporation of the Jaycee Little League with two home runs and six runs batted in as his club routed Banker's Trust, 13-2.

Swint also was the winning pitcher, allowing only five hits and three walks while striking out 13 batters.

Elsewhere around the Little League circuit, Ray and Bob Reilly combined on a no-hitter as Rondout National Bank trimmed Augustine Insurance, 6-1, in the American League. Bob was the starter with Ray getting the win after three innings of relief.

The Golden Eagles clinched at least a tie for the Esopus Girls Softball championship by downing the Buzzards, 16-7. Inga Sarda led the way with two singles, a double, and five runs batted in.

Ken Neal pitched a one-hitter and was awarded the Tex Laraby Memorial Trophy as outstanding player of the game as the West beat the East, 9-3, in the Met Knothole Junior All-Star contest.

Debrosky, Shultis Spark VFW Nine Over Kiwanis

KINGSTON

Ed Debrosky pounded out three of his teams 12 hits as VFW clubbed Kiwanis, 14-2, in a recent Junior Babe Ruth League game at Loughran Park.

The winners scored seven times in the second inning and five more in the third to make the going easy for pitcher Russ Shultis, who scattered six hits while fanning nine. Shultis helped himself with a three-run homer.

Steve Herzog, who had two of his team's hits, suffered the defeat for Kiwanis.

Huge Heroin Haul In Chicago Raid

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police recovered between $10 million and $15 million worth of heroin and arrested one man in a raid which began when an anxious landlord flagged down a squad car and led the officers to a West Side apartment.

Authorities said they confiscated about 21 pounds of heroin Sunday night—15 pounds of it in uncut Mexican heroin. Five or six pounds of heroin was in various stages of processing, police said, and two pounds of cocaine also was seized.

Police said they arrested Thomas Marquez in the apartment, which police said was a major heroin processing and distribution point. Marquez was charged with possession of heroin and cocaine. Two patrolmen were flagged down by a building landlord, who led them to an apartment where they said they smelled a "distinct odor" of drugs.

Police then raided the apartment, acting on probable cause, and found drugs stored in coffee cans, aluminum foil, plastic bags and cartons. They said Marquez was sitting in the kitchen, surrounded by drugs.

Killer Lightning In Central Park

By UPI

The thunderstorm that hit Central Park in New York City dumped a half-inch of rain in 10 minutes and washed out the children's softball game on the Great Lawn athletic field.

"Let's get under the bridge!" shouted Patrick Lucus, gym teacher at the two schools whose students were let out early for the game. He shepherded the children near him to the shelter of a stone overpass.

Lucus looked back and saw his three daughters and three other children huddled under a 35-foot oak tree at the edge of the field. Realizing the danger, he ran toward them.

He was too late.

Lightning struck the tree in a shower of sparks Monday afternoon. An 8-year-old boy hit by the bolt was killed and a 13-year-old girl was critically injured.

Lucus' daughters and the dead boy's sister, less seriously injured by the lightning, were hospitalized for observation.

A number of heavy showers and thunderstorms hit the New York metropolitan area and eastern Pennsylvania Monday, but no injuries were reported. Other thunderstorms pummeled Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, northern Illinois and Arkansas, adding to crop damage caused by weekend storms in the Midwest.

One-inch hail pelted Ft. Riley, Kan., and a flash flood watch was issued for several counties in east central Kansas and in northwest and west central Missouri.

Lowland flooding plagued the Wabash River area in Indiana from Lafayette downstream to Montezuma. The weather service said the flooding would inundate "considerable areas of agricultural bottomland and a number of secondary roads."

Weekend storms in Illinois left fields in at least two central Illinois counties west of the Illinois River in bad shape. One extension adviser said his phone was "ringing off the hook" with damage reports that insurance offices were swamped with claims. Several other central Illinois farm areas reported spotty agricultural damage.

Kent State Trial A Classic Conflict

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The $48 million Kent State civil trial is shaping up as a classic sounding board of individual versus government rights, U.S. District Judge Donald Young said Monday.

He made his position clear in rejecting a plaintiffs' motion that the defense not be allowed to question plaintiffs about their political beliefs.

"This case is one of formidable perplexity. I don't believe I've ever dealt with one which approaches it," Young said as the trial began its fifth week.

He described as a basic issue "how far may a man act in support of his beliefs and how far may the government suppress not the holding of those beliefs, but the translation of them into action."

It was the second major victory for defense lawyers representing state officials and 41 former Ohio National Guardsmen sued for damages in the May 4, 1970, killing of four students and wounding of nine others.

Earlier the judge ruled the defense could question witnesses about events of the entire weekend and not just May 4.

Two Guardsmen testified Monday they fired their M1 rifles but not at any individual.

Larry Mowrer, Wooster, Ohio, said he shot at about a 25 degree angle from where most of the shots went although he had taken off his glasses to wear a gas mask and thus could not see where he was firing.

Richard Love said despite feeling his life endangered by students rushing the Guard, he did not shoot at them but fired his M1 once in the air, then grounded it in a rest position.

Kingston Accidents

KINGSTON

A four-year-old Kingston boy was listed in fair condition today at Benedictine Hospital suffering from injuries sustained Monday night when he reportedly ran into the path of a car on Oak Street.

Injured in the 5:30 p.m. mishap was Gilberto Alvarez of 110 Franklin Street.

Police said the driver of the car, Iris Brown, 16, of 27 Clarendon Avenue told them the child ran from behind a parked car into the path of her vehicle.

Meanwhile, three passengers were injured when the car in which they were riding struck a parked car on Hone Street in Kingston Monday night at about 6:45 p.m.

Police said the car, driven by Donna M. Davide, 26, of 165 Abeel Street, was going north on Hone Street when it veered to the right and struck the parked auto.

Hospitalized following the crash were Mildred Davide, 58, and Victoria Davide, 1. Both were listed in satisfactory condition today at Kingston Hospital. A third passenger, Cheryl Davide, 27, was treated and released at the hospital.

No summonses were issued in either of the Kingston mishaps.

Personal Approach

PORT EWEN

Esopus Town Councilmen Frank Bell and Thomas Johnson have announced that they will hold unofficial mini-meetings throughout the township for the convenience of residents who are unable to attend the monthly town board meetings.

Billing their plan as a "return to the village square approach to local government," both Bell and Johnson said they will be available at the Port Ewen Firehouse Thursday nights at 7 for those residents who are unable to attend the once-monthly official meetings of the town board.

"This personal approach to governmental accessibility reflects the essential character of our community," said Johnson, "local officials must be available to discuss local problems."

Bell noted that other "mini-meeting" locations will be announced at a later date.

Native American Pow-Wow

KINGSTON

The Association of Native Americans of the Mid-Hudson Region will hold an Indian Pow-Wow Saturday at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, beginning at 7 p.m. and co-sponsored by the Kingston Bicentennial Commission.

There will be arts and crafts on display as well as singing and dancing by Native Americans. Refreshments will be served.

Suicide Ruling

KINGSTON

The death of Thomas Oulton, 33, whose body was found Saturday in his room at the Stuyvesant Hotel, has been ruled a suicide, according to authorities. Oulton, who sustained a gunshot wound to the head, was found lying on a bed with a rifle on his chest by a maid.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my wife, Viola J. Goodman, who passed away one year ago, June 17, 1974.
The say time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget.
But time has only proven,
How much I miss you yet.
God gave me courage to face it,
And strength to heal the blow.
But what it meant to loose you,
No one will ever know.
(You were the best).

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, which has been churning in the absence of news, opened higher today in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 10-point gainer Monday, was up 0.47 to 835.03 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 199 to 86, among the 463 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover amounted to about 660,000 shares.

Observers said the market could become more volatile than normal because of the low volume and the lack of significant news. The Dow average gained 10 points Monday, but only 16.6 million shares were traded.

Closing quotations yesterday by Loeb, Rhoades, and Co., members of New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange, Kingston Plaza, Kingston, N.Y., Joseph Garvila, resident manager. Phone 331-1900.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't make hasty judgments today based upon cursory evidence. It could get you in a pickle. Wait till all the facts are in.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Because of indifference you're unlikely to take full advantage of a situation that could be beneficial to your work or career.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't put too heavy an emphasis upon having a good time today. If you do, you'll later have to really hustle.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may find yourself in a situation where you'll wrongly feel you'll have to put on a few airs to impress others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Shy away from sales types today who tend to grossly exaggerate. Their stories may be fascinating but chances are thair products aren't.

VIRGO (Aug. 23Sept. 22) You're still in a good financial cycle. At the sme time you tend to be extravagant, making it difficult to show a profit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be your own man today. Don't let others decide what's best. Have the courage of your convictions. Stand firm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's ethical and noble to fairly share gains from joint efforts, but foolish to reward one who had no hand in them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't bet on situations today where you have to fully depend upon another to carry the ball. He's apt to fumble.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It is still possible to achieve your goals, though it won't be as easy as you first anticipated. Keep at it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be very realistic in the way you evaluate situations today. If you spot something wrong, don't kid yourself that it doesn't exist.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) See to it that those you deal with today pick up their fair share of the tab, or your generous nature will take the rap.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

OBSTACLE: (Q.) I've known Bob a long time and now we are going together and it is great, except for one thing. He is half white and half black. This does not matter to me (my great-grandmother was black), but mother doesn't go for it.

She has grounded me until I break up with Bob. I am 14. That means I will be grounded until I am 18 — four years — because I don't plan to break up with him. I don't know if I'll be able to cope with it for four years. Please help me. — Hurting in Pennsylvania

(A.) As your mother sees it, Bob is black and you are white. This is a big obstacle to her, but her feelings may not be all prejudiced. She wants you to avoid as much heartache as you can. It has started already, and, as you fear, it could grow worse.

Listen to your heart, and your mother's views. Also be sure Bob knows what your loyalty to him is costing. Remember, too, that you, at 14, are not ready to make lifetime decisions. If Bob is 14, neither is he.

UNINVITED: (Q.) I have a feeling my best friend has rejected me. Marcia hangs around me some now, but when Caroline is around I feel unwanted.

Tonight Marcia and Caroline are staying all night together. Should I start asking them to stay all night with me to make them count me in? — Feeling Unwanted and Rejected in Texas

(A.) You can't MAKE Marcia and Caroline want you. I have a feeling that if they did they would have invited you to spend the night with them. Face the fact that Marcia has found a new best friend and find some new friends of your own.

Jim Tosses Bid to Partner

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's North hand is the same as yesterday's except that it has one more heart and one less diamond. It was held by Cy Dennen of Grand Rapids, Mich., playing in a recent tournament with Jim Jacoby.

In spite of his holding of only nine high-card points Cy wanted to show slam interest opposite Jim's spade opening. He did this by using a Jacoby gadget. His three-heart call followed by four spades guaranteed 10 cards in spades and hearts and a very sound pass.

Based on this information Jim decided to bid at least six while inviting seven. His four and five notrump guaranteed all aces and asked for kings.

Jim intended to bid seven if Cy showed two kings but Cy showed just one. Jim's hand was still too good to settle for six but he could not afford to bid seven on his own. Instead he put pressure on Cy by bidding six hearts.

Cy thought a while, Said to himself: "The king of spades must be the right king. Now my queen of hearts should make seven the right contract." Then he bid the grand slam.

Nixon Takes a Stroll

Former President Richard Nixon, smiling and apparently recovered from his near-fatal bout with phlebitis, strolled the beach near his San Clemente home and exchanges greetings and handshakes with campers and bathers recently. Nixon was accompanied by his wife, Pat and daughter, Julie Eisenhower. (UPI)

Communists Make Big Gains in Italy

ROME (UPI) — Thousands of jubilant Communists waved red flags in downtown Rome today to celebrate stunning election gains that threatened to bring down the government and give the Communists a role in running the country.

The Communists, carrying banners emblazoned with hammers and sickles, sang the "International" during night-long demonstrations that choked traffic in the heart of the city for hours.

"The Communist party is more than ever indispensable for the salvation and rebirth of the country," Communist leader Enrico Berlinguer told a cheering crowd outside party headquarters.

He said the regional elections, which saw the Communists come close to outpolling the ruling Christian Democrats, "indicates the will of the people for a change of policies, methods and direction in the life of the country."

With nearly 99 percent of the ballots counted, the Communists won 33.5 percent of the vote, an increase of nearly six percent. The Christian Democrats polled 35.2 percent, a drop of nearly three percent.

Italians voted Sunday and Monday for 15 of Italy's 20 regional assemblies, advisory councils in 86 of 94 provinces and municipal councils in 6,300 of 8,000 cities.

The elections did not directly affect the makeup of parliament but spelled trouble for the Christian Democratic-led government of Premier Aldo Moro.

Politicians said the results could bring down the seven-month-old government if a majority of parliament insists on bringing the Communists into the coalition and the Christian Democrats oppose the move.

Christian Democratic leader Amintore Fanfani, who has opposed Communist calls for a voice in the government, called an emergency meeting of party leaders Thursday to consider the results.

The Christian Democrats, who have ruled Italy for three decades, dominated a coalition that included the Socialists, Republicans and Social Democrats.

The Socialists, who have backed Communist demands for an "historic compromise," also gained at the polls and hinted at a possible overhaul of the government to bring the Communists into the coalition.

Socialist leader Francesco De Martino said the returns "present the problem of a revision of the traditional lines and changing past policies if one wants to respond to the will of the people."

The Communists made gains in every contested province, extending the "Red Belt" to four regional assemblies and challenging the Christian Democrats for control of four others.

The two-day election also left the Communists in control of the city councils in Rome, Milan, Turin, Naples and Venice for the first time in Italian history.

The strongest Communist party in the West had campaigned on a platform of cooperation with the United States and opposition to Portugal's militant left-wing military regime.

The Communists and Socialists won control of regional councils in Liguria, Tuscany, Umbria and Emilia. They were deadlocked with the Christian Democrats in Piedmont, Lazio, Marche and Lombardy.

The Socialists have joined forces with the Communists in many of Italy's regional councils despite supporting the Christian Democrats in the national government.

Delegates Will Decide on VP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford intends to support the nomination of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller as his running mate in 1976 but will leave the final choice to the convention delegates.

In a carefully worded but ambiguous statement, Ford said Monday: "I will be for the vice president for nomination. The delegates will make the decision."

White House aides said the statement, prepared in the office of Chief of Staff Donald Rumsfeld, did not mean Ford favors an "open convention" in which he would lose control of the choice for the number two spot.

"He does not want to lock himself in 14 months before the convention," an aide said.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, who issued the statement, said he had been holding it for several days waiting for a question on the subject.

"I think the President feels every convention is open until one candidate had the delegates he needs to win the nomination, whether for vice presdent or president", Nessen said.

"So it is open until the President and vice president get enough delegates and then the matter is decided. That is the way all conventions work."

Ford, who has made clear he will run but has not formally declared his own candidacy, said: "My great admiration for Nelson Rockefeller is known ... Both of us in these coming months will be submitting ourselves to the will of the delegates to the Republican Natonal Convention in 1976.

"I am confident both of us can convince the delegates both individually and as a team we should be nominated."

A national convention by tradition selects the presidential nominee, and he in turn picks the nominee for vice president.

There has been no major talk of a "dump Rockefeller" movement. But Rockefeller has been a prime target for the conservatives in the Republican party. The leader of that wing, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., when asked Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" whether Rockefeller should be Ford's running mate in 1976, replied: "I've always thought Nelson Rockefeller would make a fine secretary of state."

Former Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, one of Ford's close political counselors, has said an "open convention" would be desirable for the Republicans next year. This has been interpreted in some circles as a move to concentrate conservative opposition on Rockefeller instead of Ford.

West German President Honored at State Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jazz trumpeter Harry James played "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow", President Ford danced with actress Elke Sommer and Betty Ford did a jitterbug at a White House party Monday night after the guest of honor went home.

The state dinner was staged to honor West German President Walter Scheel, who cut a hit record called "High on a Yellow Carriage" during his singing days not too long ago.

Scheel was on hand for the entertainment he especially had requested —Tennessee Ernie Ford and his Grand Ole Opryland troupe singing "Sixteen Tons" and other familiar numbers in the East Room.

The West German president hummed some bars of his own hit song for a group of women reporters.

When Ford spotted them around Scheel, he walked up and said, "Now girls, he's too nice not to tell you not to talk to him. I turn around and I see nothing but seven women interrogating him."

Scheel did not seem to mind, and his aide asked reporters where he could obtain copies of their stories.

After Scheel left, a spontaneous all-star show began.

James, who arrived late with Helen O'Connell, walked over to the Marine band, picked up a trumpet and struck up "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and then "Hello Dolly."

Miss O'Connell took over the microphone, followed by singers Nancy Ames and Sandy Burnett.

Mrs. Ford was the leading attraction at one point when she went into a jitterbug performance that took up half the floor of the grand hallway.

Ford was still on the dance floor at 1 a.m., doing a self-conscious two-step with Miss O'Connell's daughter, Helen Chamales, 17. "It was terrific," Miss Chamales gasped after dancing with the President. "Simply terrific."

Cuba Takes A 'Significant Step'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuba's decision to return air piracy ransom money to a U.S. airline fulfills one of the conditions on Washington's agenda for eventual normalizing of trade and diplomatic ties with the Fidel Castro government.

The unprecedented Cuban decision, announced Monday by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., came after Cuba's explusion of four U.S. citizens charged with air piracy. All four are in custody in the United States.

U.S. officials said the administration was "pleased" about the announcement that Castro's government had agreed to return $2 million in ransom obtained by skyjackers from Southern Airways in 1972.

The officials recalled that William Rogers, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, mentioned last week the return hijack money as one of the points on an "agenda of interrelated and sensitive national-interest issues" that must be the basis for any bilateral negotiations between Washington and Havana.

U.S.-Cuban relations were severed Jan. 3, 1961.

The officials indicated it was not clear whether the Cuban decision was an answer to Roger's statement or whether it fulfilled the hijack ransom condition on his "agenda."

The United States imposed a trade and travel ban on Cuba in October, 1962. It joined with other members of the Organization of American States in 1964 in imposing collective diplomatic and trade sanctions on the Castro regime.

The lastest official U.S. statement on relations with Cuba was made by President Ford in an interview with the French news magazine L'Express published Friday.

"Until there is some real change on the part of Cuba toward the United States, I don't see where we will make any change in our own attitude toward Cuba," Ford said.

McGovern, who visited Cuba in early May, said Castro told him in a letter received Friday his government had decided to give "a positive answer" to requests the money be returned to Southern Airways.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman John Sparkman, who in a letter to Castro had urged return of the money, said the Cuban leader's answer "will be a significant and positive step" toward improving relations.

Turkey Might Close U.S. Military Bases

ANKARA (UPI) — Turkey, angered at the arms embargo imposed by the U.S. Congress, formally notified the United States today that it must renegotiate the future of its bases in Turkey —including the vital Black Sea bases used to monitor Soviet missile launchings.

Turkish press reports said if the U.S. arms embargo was not lifted by July 15, Turkey would close down the 25 American bases in the country. These include U.S. intelligence gathering bases on the Black Sea opposite the Soviet Union's coastline.

"The Turkish government has decided to negotiate the new rules and conditions governing the maintenance of joint defense facilities and activities with the United States," Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil said.

Hookers Plan One-Night Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco's delegates to the Second National Hookers Convention say they will start the meeting with a show of support for their French counterparts —a one-night strike.

"It will be the summer solstice, the shortest night of the year," said a spokeswoman for COYOTE, which calls itself a loose women's organization.

The convention starts Saturday, and "we're expecting to have a lot of support for the work stoppage from prostitutes around the bay area," she said.

"There's legalized prostitution in France, but soliciting is illegal and the women are being hassled by police.

COYOTE is an acronym for Call Off Your Old Tired Ethics. It is headed by ex-hooker Margo St. James, who calls herself a chairmadam of the group. Its goal is to form a union to protect the rights of prostitutes.

Main feature of the day-long convention will be symposiums devoted to decriminalization of prostitution, including discussions on the private and legal rights of individuals in sexual matters.

Actress Jane Fonda will attend sessions because of her interest in the cause, COYOTE said Monday.

A panel —"Prostitution As Emotional Therapy" —will feature Ms. St. James; Las Vegas Madam Beverly Harrell, recently narrowly defeated in a bid for a Nevada Assembly seat; and Kitty Desmond, who runs the Golden Gate Foundation, a "sex therapy" clinic that police claim is a bordello.

Ms. Desmond said there's a sexual liberation occurring and that people should be emotionally prepared to enjoy it.

"Some people just don't know the basics of enjoying good sex," she said. "What is needed in this country is a basic sex education. The foundation can provide this."

Ms. Desmond and six of her staff women appear in court next week to answer police charges their Bush Street Mansion, with its thick rugs, cozy furnishings, grand piano and glass chandeliers, was actually a house of ill repute.

She said the foundation would take whatever legal steps necessary to fall within the law as a sex therapy center.

Dixieland music and a dance will cap the convention's activities. Money from the $10 per person evening event will go to Ms. Desmond's defense fund to pay trial costs.

"What we're expecting out of the trial is perhaps a precedent setting decision on decriminalization of prostitution," the COYOTE spokeswoman said.

Woman Is Freed

BOSTON (UPI) — Eve Shaffer, 11 years old and dying, has her mother at her side.

Mrs. Roberta Shaffer could just as easily have been in prison as at home caring for her daughter, terminally ill with cystic fibrosis.

Mrs. Shaffer was convicted of slaying her boyfriend with a single rifle shot in 1971. Monday, she walked into the Massachusetts Parole Board to learn whether she would have to go to jail.

After a brief hearing, the board placed her on parole for 1½ years, bringing her dramatic case to a conclusion.

On hearing the decision, Mrs. Shaffer, 28, tossed back her long, dark hair and whispered, "Now I can go home and take care of my family."

Eve turned 11 years old two weeks ago. Mrs. Shaffer also has a son, Eric, 7.

Mrs. Shaffer's attorney, Melvin Louison, said the board's decision was based on Eve's condition.

"How long she lives depends on the care she gets," said John Hurney, Mrs. Shaffer's brother.

Mrs. Shaffer was convicted and sentenced to prison for manslaughter in the shooting death of her fiance, John Ferruzo. State officials, including Gov. Michael Dukakis, became involved in the appeals as Mrs. Shaffer fought to stay out of jail to care for her daughter.

Through the use of emergency furloughs granted because of the child, Mrs. Shaffer has not served any time in prison.
